Iron ore shipments from Escanaba during May totaled 738,035 tons—the biggest tonnage for any month since October in the war-time year of 1944.

Escanaba as an iron ore shipping port was ahead of all other iron ports on the Great Lakes until May 12, when three docks at Superior, Duluth and Two Harbors passed Escanaba after the opening of navigation on Lake Superior.

Shakeup Hinted In North Korea

SEOUL, Korea—(AP)—President Syngman Rhee's administration—supporters of the American policy of stiffer taxes and a balanced budget for South Korea—faces a stern test June 19 when the new national assembly convenes.

South Koreans dumped major parties overboard in Tuesday's elections and gave independents a landslide victory.

Both pro-Rhee and anti-Rhee groups suffered a startling defeat. Only 31 incumbents out of 175 in the race were reelected.

Independent candidates won 123 of the 210 seats in South Korea's single house. They picked up 33 seats over the number two years ago in U. S. supervised elections.

The anti-Rhee Democratic Nationalists captured 22 seats, six less than two years ago.

The loss by pro-Rhee parties was sharper.

The Korean Nationalists won 22 seats, the National Society 11 and the Korean Youth Corps 12 for a total of 45. Mergers and dissolutions have changed the party line-up in two years. In 1948, the National Society captured 55 seats and the Korean Youth Corps 18.

A fourth boy, the driver of the car, was seriously injured. The students were celebrating graduation exercises held earlier last night at the Harlan high school. Two of the dead and the injured youth had received their diplomas.

Sheriff Orrell Gearhart of Shelby county said the car rammed into the rear of a six-ton truck loaded with live fish. The truck driver was not injured.

Last American Writer Escapes Trial In Prague

NEW YORK—(AP)—The New York Times reported today that the newspaper's Prague correspondent, Dana Adams Schmidt, had left Czechoslovakia to avoid arrest.

Schmidt was among a score of westerners named in the treason trial of 13 Czechs as having aided in setting up an anti-Communist underground ring aimed at overthrowing the government. Before he left Prague Schmidt filed a story in which he denied knowing any of the underground plotters with whom he was accused of being in contact.

Woman Admits Treason
The Times said Schmidt left Czechoslovakia for West Germany a few hours before he was to have been arrested.

The trial of the 13 accused Czechs opened yesterday in Prague with the chief defendant, Dr. Milada Horakova, pleading guilty to high treason, spying and sabotage. The Prague radio said Mrs. Horakova, a former deputy of the now-outlawed National Socialist party, testified the underground organization received orders and assistance from American, British and French diplomats.

Only Three Left
Schmidt's departure left only three Western news correspondents in the Czech capital. They were Russell Jones of the United Press, Robert F. Bigio of Reuters and Gaston Georges Fournier of the French Press Agency.

Nathan Polowetzky, American correspondent of the Associated Press, was ordered out of the country on March 29. The Czech government charged him with "unobjective reporting." The same reason was given last January for the expulsion of Richard Kasichke, chief of the AP bureau in Prague.

Bridge Closed North Of Iron Mountain

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Damage from high water and ice this spring seriously weakened county road bridges across the Michigan river north of the city, and the county highway department today reported it has ordered one 100-foot span closed to traffic. Water in the river reached an all-time high of 16 feet but has dropped to 12, according to Edgar Nelson, road department superintendent.

Gas Truck Blows Up On Ypsilanti Street, Causes Much Damage

YPSILANTI, Mich.—(AP)—A gasoline truck-trailer exploded on Ypsilanti's main street today, causing several thousand dollars damage.

The blast shattered shop windows of a nearby store and four automobiles on a used car lot were destroyed by fire.

Worse damage from the blast and fire was prevented by firemen's quick use of new fog equipment to smother the flames.

It happened on Michigan avenue in front of the Silkworth Oil Co.

No one was injured. Windows of the Silkworth company caved in under the blast.

The truck driver, Franklin Fauser, 25, of Green Springs, Ohio, leaped out of his cab and escaped harm.

Before firemen got full control, gasoline had run into sewers and manhole covers were popping up from a chain reaction.

Police and firemen roped off the area and detoured traffic.

Fauser, a driver for the Paul M. Gilmor Co. of Old Fort, Ohio, had just driven into the city at 6:15 a. m.

An axle broke as the truck-trailer, carrying 9,800 gallons of gasoline, was going east on the Michigan Avenue hill.

One wheel was lost, the trailer dropped to the pavement, and an explosion ensued.

A column of black smoke spouted up from the orange flame of the burning gasoline as fire equipment raced to the scene.

Meanwhile gasoline escaped into the sewers and also ran under the bridge over the Huron river, where city workers set about washing out the sewers to protect against any danger.

Shows Reduce Fire Hazards In Canada; Spruce Loss Heavy

HALIFAX, N. S.—(AP)—Showers last night reduced the Canadian fire hazard from Manitoba to New Brunswick but a monster blaze continued to plague Nova Scotia.

Eastern Halifax today was the scene of the worst outbreak. A big blaze has destroyed some 15,000 acres of spruce in three days and still was burning furiously yesterday. The outbreak already has caused more damage than all Nova Scotia forest fires in 1949.

Some 1,500 men were fighting the blaze and Forest Minister A. W. Mackenzie made a personal appeal for co-operation by the public.

Defiant Communists Call Strike In Japan

Trailer Breaks Loose, Crushes 3 To Death In Auto At St. Ignace

ST. IGNACE, Mich.—(P)—A heavily loaded truck trailer broke loose and smashed into a passenger car yesterday, crushing three persons to death.

The trailer, loaded with nearly 14 tons of coal, broke loose from the truck tractor and careened into an Ontario car three miles west of here on U. S. 2.

Chemist Admits Atomic Spying

By DONALD C. WILLIAMS
PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A federal judge will appoint counsel, perhaps today, for Harry Gold, who said yesterday he will plead guilty to being a courier in Soviet Russia's atom spy network.

But the small, chubby research chemist, 39 years old, asked the judge to find an attorney who would back him in denying that he is guilty of intending to harm the United States. Gold said he wants a lawyer who will let him cooperate with the FBI.

Looking worried and with his head held low, Gold was brought yesterday under heavy guard to the chambers of U. S. District Judge James E. McGranery. It was McGranery who placed Gold under $100,000 bond on May 23, when FBI agents arrested him as the link between the convicted British atomic spy, Klaus Fuchs, and Soviet operatives.

Fuchs is serving a 14-year term in Britain after confessing that he passed on information gained as a member of the British team which helped develop the atomic bomb in the United States.

After a 10-minute conference, the judge disclosed that Gold told him he would plead guilty "to acting as a courier for a Russian atom spy ring" and asked the court to appoint counsel for him.

Sleepy Communist Youths End Sitdown At Western Germany

LUEBECK, Germany—(AP)—Ten thousand sleepy Communist youths marooned for two nights just inside the Soviet zone started moving toward their West German homes today after calling off their sitdown strike.

The blue-shirted boys and girls accepted West German police demands that they give their names or submit to medical examinations before crossing the border.

They had been camping in the chilly border "no man's land," refusing to heed the police orders, since Tuesday night when they reached the east-west zonal frontier after attending the Communist Whitens rally in Berlin.

The weary youths capitulated after a sleepless night during which they piled their straw bedding into camp fires in an attempt to keep warm. This morning they shuffled past lines of police and watchful German doctors who gave them a quick look over for any possible contagious diseases contracted in their crowded Berlin quarters.

Earthquake McGoon Says Chinese Reds Treated Him Well

HONG KONG—(P)—American pilot James (Earthquake McGoon) McGovern said today his Chinese Communist captors "went out of their way to treat me good."

McGovern, 28-year-old Elizabeth, N. J., pilot, was returned to Hong Kong yesterday after nearly five months in Communist hands.

He crash-landed one of retired U. S. Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's C-47s inside Red China last Dec. 5 on a flight to Kunming.

Gripping one of a three-inch reddish-brown beard, McGovern, a former air force lieutenant, said, "The Chinese always treated me as a friend. They said, 'American people are all our friends but the American government is no good. The American people will rise up in the course of time and adopt Communism.'"

Tension Grows For MacArthur In Tokyo Area

First Violence Felt On Memorial Day

By RUSSELL BRINES
TOKYO—(AP)—Openly defiant, Japan's Communist party today ordered a general strike Saturday in reprisal for the occupation's rush trial of eight Japanese accused of kicking and stoning American soldiers.

The strike call promised to bring to a head growing tension between General MacArthur's occupation and the belligerent Communists.

U. S. Soldiers Beaten
This tension, fueled by recent international Communist charges that the Japanese Reds were too docile, erupted Memorial Day in the first physical violence of the occupation against U. S. troops.

A captain and four enlisted men, observers at a Communist anti-American rally in downtown Imperial Plaza, were kicked, beaten and stoned. Only a few hours earlier, authorities had expelled the Communists from the Plaza to permit Americans to hold Memorial Day services for their war dead, including those who fell in the Pacific conflict against Japan.

MacArthur in a May 2 speech urged the Japanese to defend their new constitutional liberties against the "international political perfidy" of Communism. He suggested the possibility of outlawing Japan's Communist party.

Aimed At Elections
The Communist party howled that the Plaza incidents were caused "by systematic and organized provocations by spies" and threatened:

"Workers and students—rise up and start a general strike . . . demanding immediate release of the eight patriots."

It timed the reprisal strike to coincide with general strikes Saturday in the automobile, metal trades and heavy industry. The party's purpose in the latter is to influence the elections Sunday for the upper house of Parliament.

There was no way of telling how effective the Communists could make their general strike. Occupation officials estimate the Reds control 600,000 of Japan's 6,250,000 organized workers.

Leftist Japanese college student leaders also called a nationwide strike for Saturday. About

Naval Air Base Crash Kills 9

QUONSET, R. I.—(P)—Nine Navy men perished today when a twin-engine patrol plane crashed and burned at this Naval air base while making an emergency landing.

The plane was reported en route to Argentina, Newfoundland, when engine trouble developed 23 minutes after leaving here.

Commander Raymond Glasgow, in charge of public information, said the pilot and co-pilot escaped. The remainder of the crew was trapped in the blazing plane as a rescue crew stood by unable to reach them.

The Navy reported the plane was caught in a cross wind in landing and was tipped over on its back.

The pilot and co-pilot were pulled out alive.

Military President Of Peru Resigns To Seek Office Again

LIMA, Peru—(AP)—Peru's military president, Gen. Manuel Odría, became a self-styled "plain citizen"—and an office seeker—today.

The office he seeks is the presidency he resigned last night.

A cabinet announcement said the general resigned the post he seized 19 months ago to become a candidate in the National elections July 2. He will be succeeded by Minister of War Zenon Noriega.

Odría in October, 1948, deposed President Jose Luis Bustamante after a three-day bloodless army revolt. He named an all-military cabinet, or junta, which with several changes has served since then.

President's Health-Welfare Plan Still Has Opposition In New Garb

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman's change in the name softened Senate opposition today to a proposed new government department of health, education and security.

However, the probability that Oscar E. Ewing would become the first secretary of such a department revived some of the opposition which killed a similar reorganization plan last year.

At that time, Mr. Truman proposed a new department of welfare. Opponents dubbed it down in a 60 to 32 Senate vote last August 16 largely on the grounds

White House Asks $1,222,500,000 As Foreign Arms Aid

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman today asked Congress to provide $1,222,500,000 for a second year of the arms aid program.

He said delay in supplying the money might "strike a fatal blow at all our efforts to create the kind of peace which the free world seeks and would lessen our chances of continuing to live and work in freedom."

The fund would finance arms shipments to more than a dozen foreign nations, including Atlantic pact allies, during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The president gave this breakdown as to how the new money would be spent:

North Atlantic Treaty Nations—$1,000,000,000. This would go for weapons, a training program and would include spending at $75,000,000 for raw materials and machinery needed to boost military production in western Europe.

Greece and Turkey—$120,000,000 to furnish "basic capital equipment," spare parts and to help modernize Greek and Turkish defenses.

Iran, the Philippines and Korea—$27,500,000 to pay for equipment and training to help the Iranian army "present a firm stand in defense of independence against strong Soviet pressures." It also would help the Philippines and South Korean governments to maintain internal order in the face of Communist threats.

General area of China—$75,000,000. The president said this money is needed "to continue and expand upon" present programs for giving help "to the non-Communist forces in this area that are now engaged or in danger of being engaged, in active conflict with militant Communist elements."

Gasoline Goes Up In Detroit

DETROIT — (P) — The price of gasoline may go up a half cent a gallon in the Detroit area at midnight tonight, dealer sources reported.

It would be the seventh price hike since the war. The new price would be 26.1 cents for regular gasoline and 28.1 cents for premium.

The predicted price increase at retail gas stations was based on an unconfirmed report that Standard Oil Co. of Indiana would increase the wholesale price of gasoline half a cent a gallon.

Standard's district office here said it had received no instructions from the division office in Chicago. Dealers expected, however, the increase would be announced today.

F. J. Swindell, district manager for Standard, said indications were that a price increase is justified. He said that prices have been strengthened in the wholesale market. Standard, he added, has improved the quality of its gasoline in the last two months.

Rankin Peck, executive director of the Retail Gasoline Dealers of Michigan, said dealers are bitter about the reported price increase.

Standard's district office here said it had received no instructions from the division office in Chicago. Dealers expected, however, the increase would be announced today.

Holiday Accidents Kill 36 In Michigan

Count Of 1950 Population Is Nearing Windup

Bad Floods Delay Census-Takers

WASHINGTON—(P)—Census Director Roy W. Peel announced today the 1950 population count is about 98 per cent complete.

"Locating and listing 151,000,000 persons, many hundreds of thousands of them difficult to locate because all members of the family are absent from home at work, is no easy chore," he commented.

Peel said the count — begun April 1 with hopes it could be wrapped up in a month — is still incomplete for approximately 7,000 of the 230,000 census districts, but "is being pushed to conclusion as rapidly as possible."

Living Standards Up
"The bulk of the work remaining to be done is in the Dakotas, Wyoming, Montana and Minnesota where floods and bad roads have hampered census takers for several weeks," he added.

District supervisors will eventually release census totals for counties and all cities with population above 1,000.

Peel said observations of supervisors throughout the nation already point to such trends as:

"Widespread evidence of an improved standard of living as indicated by home facilities and utilities. (A check on housing and farming was made simultaneously with the population count.)"

Gain 20 Million
"Large population increase on the west coast, in Texas, Florida, and in the industrialized areas around the Great Lakes."

"Great growth in the suburban areas of large cities—some of this at the expense of central city population."

"A large proportion of women in the population and a considerable increase in women workers."

Bureau experts are sticking to their expectation that the count will show the nation's population to have been about 151,000,000 on April 1, reflecting a 20,000,000 gain in the last ten years.

Legislation Drafted To Raise U. S. Limit On Displaced Persons

WASHINGTON—(P)—A Senate-House conference group has agreed on legislation to boost from 205,000 to 340,000 the number of displaced persons who might enter the United States.

The group, assigned to iron out differences in bills passed by the two chambers, reached formal agreement late yesterday after weeks of discussion.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), a member of the conference committee, said the compromise measure will be sent back to the two chambers today for final action.

Besides boosting the total of those war refugees ruled eligible for admission, the legislation would extend the DP act another year beyond the June 30 expiration date.

Of the total number of refugees to be accepted under the plan, more than 150,000 already have reached the United States.

Importance Of Air Service Here Outlined At Aviation Banquet

Speakers Tell Of Benefits

Higgins And Smith Talk For Airlines

The importance of commercial air service to Escanaba was outlined by several speakers at the aviation banquet sponsored by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening at the House of Ludington.

Francis M. Higgins, of Madison, president of Wisconsin Central Airlines, reported that Escanaba is now one of less than 600 cities in the United States on a certificated air route. He emphasized that Escanaba has acquired a very valuable franchise.

Higgins briefly reviewed the Wisconsin Central flight record, pointing out that WC planes have carried 50,000 passengers a total of 3,000,000 miles with a perfect safety record. He said that the company employs 75 mechanics at Madison in the service department to keep the WC planes flying.

"We have started scheduled flight service to Escanaba on the assumption that you will complete the airport improvement program that is necessary for continued CAA certification," Higgins said. He reported that each of the 50 Wisconsin Central pilots and the six WC dispatchers have made landings at the Escanaba airport as a prelude to starting regular service.

The Wisconsin Central president reported that the company has spent considerable money in Escanaba for the installation of weather, radio and other facilities to assure dependable air service to the community.

"Use It or Lose It" In conclusion, Higgins issued some advice to his listeners: "Use our service or you stand to lose it. The records of business generated at each airport are public information, published periodically in national magazines. Cities that fail to use the services offered to them cannot hope to retain such services."

Robert Smith, of Detroit, manager of Nationwide Airlines which operates an intra-state air service to Escanaba from Detroit.

U. P. Road Builders To Convene Here June 14-16

The Upper Peninsula Road Builders association will meet in Escanaba June 14, 15 and 16 for its annual convention, with about 200 men expected to attend, it was announced today by William J. Karas, Delta road superintendent-engineer, who is convention program chairman.

Membership of the U. P. Road Builders association includes commissioners and personnel of road departments in the 15 U. P. counties and road equipment dealers. Martin V. Meyers of Painesdale, Houghton county, is president of the association. C. G. Ahearn of Menominee is vice president; and E. R. Nelson of Iron Mountain is secretary-treasurer.

The program is being arranged by Karas, and the entertainment committee is headed by Wilmore Berglund of the Bark River Culvert & Equipment company, Bark River. The county road men will meet in discussion groups during the three-day convention for a discussion of their problems.

The convention banquet will be held the evening of June 15 at the House of Ludington. Principal speaker at the banquet will be J. Lance Rumble, general manager of the retail truck branch, General Motors of Canada, Ltd.

Other convention speakers, who will discuss Michigan's road problems, will be the following: Charles M. Ziegler, Lansing, state highway commissioner, whose subject will be "Where Are We Now?"; State Senator John B. Martin who will talk on "Bad Roads: Michigan's No. 1 Problem"; and Rep. Victor A. Knox, Sault Ste. Marie, whose topic will be "Where Are We Going?"

reported that next week Nationwide will observe its third anniversary. He said that the company's planes have flown 10 million passenger miles of safe operation and have carried thousands of passengers in and out of the Escanaba airport.

Smith agreed with Higgins that Escanaba is indeed fortunate in having regularly scheduled air service.

"Many cities in the United States that are considerably smaller than Escanaba are still without air service," Smith said. "Escanaba has two commercial air routes, one of them certified by the CAA and the other intra-state."

The Nationwide Airlines official reported that his company has enjoyed excellent cooperation from the people of Escanaba.

Speedy Air Service A. B. Ronzani, of St. Paul, representing the U. S. Postoffice Department, reported that an airmail letter mailed at Escanaba before 5:30 p. m. will reach Los Angeles, California at 7:50 o'clock the following morning.

Service to Rome, Italy is only 30 hours from Escanaba, he said. He said that an air parcel post package weighing five pounds would be delivered in Milwaukee for 84c.

G. G. E. Laudenback, Green Bay, sales representative of the Railway Express, said that air express shipments from Escanaba would reach an addressee at any certified airport in the United States within 24 hours. He reviewed the history of air express, emphasizing the tremendous increase in express volume in recent years.

Howard Eakins, Chicago, flight operations inspector of the Civil Aeronautics administration, explained the CAA regulations, and City Manager A. V. Aronson of Escanaba spoke briefly on the advantages of commercial air service to the people of Escanaba.

Mrs. Regina Cleary, Escanaba postmaster, reported that 2500 first flight covers were handled at the local postoffice in preparation for the inaugural flight.

The address of welcome was given by Mayor Peter Logan of Escanaba and Dr. Vernon Johnson was toastmaster.

Greyhound Bus Comes Tonight

Scenicruiser Will Be On Display

The new Greyhound Scenicruiser, only bus of its kind in the United States, will be in Escanaba for a public showing in front of the bus depot, 615 Ludington street, this evening.

Norman Hansen, Escanaba, local superintendent of the Northland Greyhound Lines, said the bus will be open for public inspection from 6 to 7:30 p. m.

Greyhound's new Scenicruiser was developed by Greyhound engineers, working in collaboration with Raymond Loewy Associates, industrial designers, and with styling specialists of the General Motors corporation.

The sleek 43-passenger coach provides greater visibility, smoother riding and more seating comfort than has been enjoyed by bus-travel patrons heretofore. The Scenicruiser's design places 33 passengers on a raised level, with 10 in the comfortably appointed entrance level immediately behind the driver.

Passengers in the upper area, which is reached by three easy steps, are seated in a transparent dome with a wide windshield curved around the entire forward section, giving them an unobstructed view of the road ahead.

Next Wednesday noon, honor students and their parents will be entertained by the Rotary club at a luncheon at the Delta hotel.

The senior class banquet will be held in the evening at the Bethany Lutheran church and will be followed by a dance at the gym.

Editorials—

This Is Aviation Progress Day, A Memorable Occasion In City

THIS is a day of much significance for the people of Escanaba and surrounding communities. It marks the beginning of federally certificated commercial air service to and from the city, on a route that extends to Milwaukee and Chicago south, and to Minneapolis and St. Paul west.

Escanabans are mindful of the importance of good air service to a community. The heavy expenditures already made in the development of the local airport and the commitments for expansion in the future prove this.

The air schedule of Wisconsin Central for Escanaba at the start of service here provides one flight south and another flight north daily. Eventually it is anticipated that the service will be expanded to provide for a south-bound flight in early morning with an evening return to permit most of a full day to transact business in Chicago or Milwaukee.

Our goal, on this Aviation Progress Day, is to continue to strive for better commercial air service, more flights daily to the major cities of the middle west and for certification of a federally franchised route from the Upper Peninsula directly to Detroit and major cities of the Lower Peninsula.

The commercial airlines will find to their satisfaction, we are sure, that Escanaba ultimately will generate considerable air traffic, passengers, airmail and air freight, on the established lines. Further, the airlines will find that weather conditions at Escanaba generally, both winter and summer, are better than at any other airport in the Upper Peninsula.

Thomas Presumptuous In Appeal To Truman

IF President Truman cancels the $10,000 fine and the remainder of the jail sentence of former Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, who was convicted of defrauding the government, then the American people will have cause to lose faith in American justice.

Thomas was found guilty of payroll padding and salary kickbacks from his employees. Some of the high-handed methods that Thomas used to cash in illegally and unethically on his position as a congressman were revealed first by Drew Pearson in the Washington Merry-Go-Round column published daily in the Escanaba Daily Press and hundreds of other newspapers throughout the country. The Pearson charges later were investigated by the department of justice and ultimately Thomas was formally accused and convicted.

He was sentenced to serve six months to 18 months at the Danbury, Connecticut, reformatory and will be eligible for parole June 6. Now he has petitioned President Truman to cancel the remainder of his jail sentence and the $10,000 fine. Thomas has not indicated, however, on what basis he believes that he should be entitled to this special privilege.

To the average American, Parnell Thomas is simply a crook who used his position of trust to cheat the American taxpayers. He deserves no special attention from the president of the United States or from anyone else to escape the penalties of his crime. It is, we think, extremely presumptuous of Thomas to appeal to the president to avoid the penalties of his criminal acts.

Pooling Europe's Power May Meet Defense Needs

THE 12 Atlantic pact countries stand at a crossroads. At their London conference the big question confronting each nation was: "How can we get an adequate defense without going bankrupt?"

Western European leaders are convinced that drastically lowered living standards for their peoples would be the inevitable outcome if each country goes on planning for its own balanced force of army, air force and naval units.

Some believe that even as allies they lack the economic strength needed for the sort of defensive effort their military men consider basic to security.

The European chiefs no longer see any point in discussing whether security or economic recovery should have priority. They think the two somehow must be achieved together. But how?

The plan now turning over in some leaders' minds is to create a giant pool of military and economic resources among all the pact countries. They think the defense job might be accomplished if each country were assigned just a part of it, with all the parts fitted into an overall pattern.

Thus France might be asked to supply land forces, the Low Countries some specialized combat units, Britain the tactical air arm, the United States the strategic air force and possibly the main naval strength. There might be a similar division of effort in the output of munitions and other equipment.

This is a revolutionary idea for Europe to study seriously. It involves a loss of individual national sovereignty, heretofore clung to so jealously by all. More than that, it would demand a remarkable display of mutual confidence among the pact nations.

Nevertheless, that's the line European officials have been thinking along. It's a measure of the gravity of their dilemma.

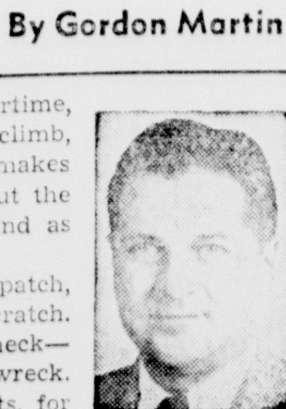

The full pooling of Atlantic power was not accomplished at London. But a start was made in the setting up of a permanent committee to co-ordinate military and economic matters among the pact countries. Europeans know the situation is urgent. They can't lean indefinitely on the United States as their sole support in this predicament.

Buggy World

There is much that can be said about the good old summertime, when the warming sun's a-laz-in' and the morning-glories climb, how the birds give out with music and the buzzin' of the bees, makes it little short of heaven, could you loaf beneath the trees. But the summertime brings other things, like garden-raiding slugs, and as sure as summer comes around, you've got to fight the bugs.

Now that goes for human beings, as it does the garden patch, for there's lots of pesky chiggers that a man is bound to scratch. There's the hovering mosquito poised to nosedive on your neck—you may ultimately swat him but he leaves your nerves a wreck. Not to mention sudden air-raids from a swarm of orn'y gnats, for when summer comes it brings along all Bugville's plucotrats.

There's the aphids on the roses and the beetles on the beans, and the hoppers eating everything that isn't under screens. It's the same way every summer, and there's little one can do, but to spray and pray and swat and groan and cuss and rave and stew. Even then you can't avoid these depreddating little thugs, and as sure as summer comes around you've got to fight the bugs.

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Neutral Japan — One inside reason for Secretary Johnson's trip to Tokyo is army and navy opposition to General MacArthur's idea of making Japan the Switzerland of the Pacific. MacArthur has been talking so much about Japanese neutrality that the Japanese people are beginning to dislike Washington's idea of using Japan as a potential base against Siberia.

Diplomatic Boomerang — President Inonu of Turkey is blistering mad at the United States, especially ambassador George Wadsworth. He allowed Wadsworth to talk him into holding new elections to illustrate Turkish democracy. Actually the elections weren't necessary, but on the ambassador's advice President Inonu held them. Now his government is defeated, and Ambassador Wadsworth is in the canine woodshed.

Sex Probe — One nest of sex unfortunates, now under investigation by the senate, has been traced to the Soviet embassy. Police hinted, behind closed senate doors, that Soviet perverts are being used to get acquainted with American unfortunates. The idea is that the Americans could then be forced to spy for Russia, rather than risk exposure. Police also testified that Hitler had a world-wide list of perverts and that Stalin probably confiscated this list, or is compiling one of his own—for espionage purposes.

Bookie Probe — Betting Commissioner James Carroll admitted off-the-record to senators that bookmaking thrives because local laws are not enforced. Carroll told senators that, in his 35 years in the gambling business in St. Louis, only one bookie had been brought to trial—in spite of a law against bookies.

Super-Strategy Board — Secretary of State Acheson's talks in London will be followed by several moves to organize democracy into a hard-hitting team. A key plan is now being discussed backstage whereby the president will set up what amounts to a joint chiefs of staff for propaganda, economic warfare, diplomacy, military strategy, and hush-hush behind-the-enemy lines activities.

GOP Runs Foreign Policy? — The state department has gone so far to appease Republicans that the Democrats are fuming. While Secretary of State Acheson keeps Republican senators informed on foreign policy, Democratic senators have to read it in the papers. It has got so bad that Democrats are now talking about investigating the Republicans in the state department—such as General MacArthur in Japan, Commissioner McCloy in Germany, ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman, United Nations Delegate Warren Austin, and Special Advisers Dulles and Cooper, who seem to have a bigger voice in foreign policy than the Democrats.

Guided Missiles — In its secret laboratories, the navy is way ahead of the other services in a field more revolutionary than the atomic bomb — the guided missile. Naval discoveries are so hot that admirals who chafed against B-36's are now saying these guided missiles will relegate planes to a minor place in aggressive warfare. The navy's guided missiles can follow a moving target like a magnet.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

President Truman will veto the new tax bill—if it decreases government net revenue. That means no tax reduction will become law this year.

An 11-year-old youngster almost broke into tears when he couldn't find any paper for Vice President Barkley to autograph. But the kindly veep solved the problem by signing his name on the white lining of the boy's necktie.

Remarked Henry Wallace to a friend the other day: "The Progressive party will die because it doesn't seem to be able to get rid of the Communists."

Top government economists estimate that if rent control is removed there will be a 25 per cent increase in city rents throughout the nation. That's equivalent to a 5 per cent cut in the average take-home pay of every tenant.

Senator Kefauver of Tennessee, who is leading the senate's war against crime, wants congress to establish its own "little FBI" to do the sleuthing for congressional investigations. This would provide permanent, trained agents for committees of congress to draw upon, rather than the present system of rounding up a new staff for every investigation. The idea was suggested by Senator Watkins of Utah who will join Kefauver in sponsoring appropriate legislation.

READERS WANT TO KNOW

Broken Arrow: I am seeking the word for goat meat, as beef to cattle, pork to hogs, etc. Can you help me?—Mrs. C. F. C. A. The word is chevon, pronounced: SHEV-un. It is an English word coined from the French chevre, "goat," plus mouton, "sheep; mutton."

Downville: Will you please pronounce the word antihistamine for me? I do not find the word in my dictionary.—K. C. A. Say: ANN-tee-HISS-tuh-men.

Chicago: What is meant by the expression "hot as agur 40°"?—T. A.

A. "Agur forty" is a dialectal corruption of the Latin aqua fortis, "strong water," pronounced: AK-wuh FAWR-tiss. "Aqua fortis" is used to designate a weak grade of nitric acid.

Washington: What does "hard-bitten" mean, and what's the origin? To me it suggests a lion tamer, a snake charmer, or a verminous gentleman from Skid Row.—E. O. J.

A. Merriam Webster's explains its origin as, "hard in biting, as a dog." Hence, stubborn; tough. But I believe it is another form of hard-bitten, i. e., said of a horse, who champs his teeth down on the bit (takes the bit between its teeth), and therefore is difficult or impossible to control.

Women Are Taking Over Greater Share Of Jobs In U. S. Industry

(From Wall Street Journal)
By STEPHEN K. GALPIN

Rewrite that tearful ballad of the early 1900's, which cried "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl."

Make it read "Heaven Must Protect the Working Male."

For women are taking over. They have been elbowing their way into factory and office at three times the rate men have in the past decade. Especially married women. The number of wives who have forsaken washboard for typewriter has soared 90 per cent in that period. And that's a fact of no small economic note.

For one thing, it means that more families have two pay checks to spend for everything from soup and soap to autos and television sets. According to Department of Commerce figures, in one of every five U. S. families both spouses worked or looked for work last year. A decade ago the figure was one in every nine.

Under War Peak

Of course there are far fewer women workers now than during the war, when Rosie the Riveter and her sisters and grandmother all went after jobs. Female employment hit its peak in July, 1944, when over 20 million women workers made up 36 per cent of the U. S. labor force. With the war over, the number of lady workers slumped to a post-war low of about 16 million, or 27 per cent of the working force, in February, 1947. At most recent report early in April, there were more than 18 million women workers. They constituted 29 per cent of U. S. toilers.

But over the long pull women are gaining on men. The number of women holding jobs or looking for them has climbed 24 per cent in the past decade, though the female population over 14 years old has risen only 11 per cent. Meanwhile the number of men workers has inched up only 7.7 per cent—little more than the 5.7 per cent male population rise.

The demand for women workers is still gathering momentum personnel experts say.

For example, William A. Dane, general manager of the Long Island Employment Bureau Agency, of New York, says: "I've got more orders for qualified women workers than I can possibly fill. Right after the war everybody was looking for men to fill jobs, but since 1948 there's been a trend to women."

Even companies that have traditionally employed a high percentage of women are using more today. The New York Telephone Co., for instance, has more than twice as many women now as it had in 1940. Its number of male employees has increased but 47 per cent. General Electric Co., says its proportion of women to men is up "considerably since before the war." Western Electric Co., employs 105 per cent more women than a decade ago, compared with 68 per cent more men.

Reason For Trend

What's caused this dislocation of the distaff?

There are a variety of things, say personnel people. For one, jobs are more attractive to women than they used to be because the pay is higher.

Patricia Bishop, of the Donald G. Wilman Employment Service of New York, is an advocate of this theory. "Stenographers and typists used to start at $15 a week ten years ago," she recalls. "Now the base is around $30, and a graduate of a good secretarial school can get $40 as a starter."

There are more jobs open to women in office and industry, too. A spokesman for Thorndike DeLand, executive placement agency for retail stores, makes this observation: "Employers can pay women less than men." He adds: "They can pay married women less than single ones, too, because wives usually have a husband bringing in money."

Other Theories

More esoteric reasons are advanced by other experts in explanation of the rising female tide.

Declares Gladys Gove, director of education of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs: "The real reason why more women are working is that people are living longer. Women have to work to support their aged parents." She adds that since children are going to school longer, it follows that many wives must work to help support them.

A global explanation is offered by John D. Durand, a United Nations population analyst. He says the U. S. trend toward more women workers mirrors one which has been underway in Europe for some time. Part of the explanation, he thinks, is the long-term decline in the U. S. birth rate, freeing wives to take jobs. Mr. Durand also thinks the tendency toward smaller houses and home labor-saving devices is part of the reason. The U. N. expert also mentions a "change in the popular attitude towards women working. People used to think women shouldn't have jobs," he notes. "It wasn't considered proper."

Other Facets

The rising demand for women is being reflected another way. They are less likely to be unemployed than men. In the most recent week reported on by the Census Bureau, about 4.9 per cent of women in the female labor force were jobless. The comparable figure for men was 6 per cent.

In what fields are women scoring their gains at men's expense? After the wartime job boom had pretty well shaken itself out, the Labor Department's Women's Bureau in 1947 investigated the matter. It found that women held 59 per cent of clerical jobs, compared with 53 per cent in 1940. They had increased their share of factory-type jobs from 26 per cent to 28 per cent. Women proprietors and executives made up 13 per cent of the total compared with 12 per cent in 1940. But men made gains in one direction, anyway. Women's share of domestic service jobs fell from 94 per cent in 1940 to 92 per cent in 1947.

Another finding of the survey: There were 73.3 per cent more women executives and business owners than in 1940—about 750,000 in all. Other big percentage gains: Sales workers 59 per cent; factory workers 56.2 per cent; clerical employees 69.2 per cent.

Single Women Preferred

Clerical workers make up the numerically strongest regiment in the growing army of female employees, with factory workers next. But whether they're lady clerks or lady lathe operators, employers generally prefer them to be unmarried—if they can get them that way.

International Business Machines Corp., just after the war instituted a policy of employing no married women. The idea was to make room for returning servicemen, and though most of them have been back in the fold for some time, the policy still stands.

H. L. Rhoades, personnel officer of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., says: "It's always been our general policy not to hire women who are married. But if they come to us single and get married later we'll keep them as long as they want to stay."

The personnel head of another big company with a rule against employing wives states the reason is that "married women lose a great deal more time than single girls for personal reasons, like children."

Some other companies disagree, however.

"Marriage doesn't interfere with the girls' work one bit," declares W. K. Lentz, employment supervisor of National Biscuit Co.

Older Women Go Back to Work

Will this trend to women's working continue? Miss Mirra Komarovsky, associate professor of sociology at New York's Barnard College, thinks it will keep on for a while anyway. The trend was accelerated by the war, she notes, but it had started long before that. "As far as I can see," she declares, "none of the basic forces back of it have expended themselves."

And there's a new trend cropping up, Miss Komarovsky finds—one toward married women returning to work after their children have grown up enough to go to school. Women's working life is being broken up into segments, she says. They work after they finish school, then quit after marriage has brought children, and finally go back to work near middle age.

Census Bureau experts bear out this thesis. One population analyst notes that since 1940 there hasn't been much change in the proportion of young married women working. The big shift, he finds, has come among wives between 35 and 64, where the proportion working or looking for work has doubled.

Job Opportunities

Dear Editor:

Whether or not you print my letter in your paper is immaterial to me—as long as you read and digest it.

Why don't you give the boys and girls in the surrounding area a chance to get a job in Escanaba, from the Want-Ad section?

All the people in the surrounding areas get the paper a day late. Therefore when the "ad" says apply in person at a certain time or date (usually the same day the paper is printed) the country kids don't know it until the next day.

Is this fair? No! Why isn't something done then? Are the country kids supposed to get the leaveings after Escanaba students have their opportunities?

It's disgusting and something should be done immediately about it.

I know that many other students for miles around will agree with me.

"Disgusted"

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

JUST WANDERING—Now the so-called vacation weekend is over, we can settle down to peruse the newspapers and catch up on the world.

It was with considerable interest we read that a young lady in Pittsburgh foiled a would-be attacker by jumping out of a third-story window.

An Escanaba lady recalls the days of her youth when, as a girl from the country, she and two other young women were to make a long trip unescorted by brother or father. They were going seven miles by horse and buggy.

Just before they got the oat-burner in motion, Mama handed the oldest girl a little paper bag.

"There is black pepper in the sack," she said. "If a man accosts you—throw pepper in his eyes and stab him with your hat pins!"

RIGHT AND WRONG—Fortunately for the men of the area, the girls got through without being confronted by anything resembling the male sex.

But that reminds us of the recent story of the boy who came home from school much disgruntled in spirit. The teacher, a lady, had prevailed.

In geography class the teacher asked: "Are there any national parks in our state?"

The boy said there was one. The teacher (who had spent her lifetime in Wisconsin until she came to teach in Michigan) said there were none. The boy tried to tell her about Isle Royale National Park but she told him to go bury his nose in a book.

Which also reminds us that at Marquette last weekend, Dr. Rolland H. Maybee, Mt. Pleasant, president of the Historical Society of Michigan, told members of U. P. historical societies:

"A knowledge of the history of our state should be acquired in the grades." Perhaps geography and history might be combined—at least for the teachers.

BACK IN CLASS—With teachers and students both acquainted with the fundamentals of Michigan history and geography, suppose we consider the plight of a little girl in Houston, Texas.

Sandra Marie Winkler, six years old, went to school in a bare-armed sun dress—and was sent home by the teacher, who called the frock "indecent."

The infuriated Mrs. Winkler refused to back down, said she would send Sandra back with her backless dress.

But the school principal talked over the matter with the mother and now Sandra is back in school. Her shoulders are covered by a little jacket.

EVERYBODY WINS—We suppose Sandra slips the jacket on when she enters school and slips it off as she skips out the front door. She is happy, Mama is happy, and the principal is at least satisfied.

But if her Mama had been of the old school, little Sandra (even at the age of 24) would have been dressed in seven yards of gingham, one sunbonnet, two hat pins and a sack of pepper.

Everybody is trying to be helpful these days.

On another page of the newspaper was a story about how to help the alcoholics. It was recommended that a "rather casual attitude be adopted on all contacts with him."

This might be difficult for the wife of the alcoholic—but you should see how casual a bartender can be.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Kearny, N. Y. — A strike labelled "100 per cent complete" by a union spokesman, tied up construction today on six U. S. warships in the yards of the federal shipbuilding and dry dock company. Federal officials expressed hopes of an early settlement. A total of 8,000 men walked out at midnight yesterday over a wage dispute.

Washington—President Roosevelt's reorganization plan designed to "deal quickly" with fifth columns was approved today by the senate by a vote of 55 to 4. The Roosevelt program will transfer the immigration service to the justice department, from the labor department, 10 days after it is passed.

Escanaba—Chester M. Olson of Escanaba, a member of the Spartan tennis team for the past two years, will be among 780 students who will be graduated from Michigan State college June 10.

Escanaba — Final services in the First Baptist church on the corner of 14th street and Third avenue south will be held Sunday. The building has been purchased by the city for use as a recreation center.

Gladstone—Warren Fisher, Robert Willis, Eugene Noblet, Jr., and Lansing Marble have been selected by Gladstone service clubs to attend Boys' State at East Lansing June 20-28.

20 YEARS AGO

Mt. Pleasant — Braves of the Chippewa Indian tribe tonight ousted their old chief and chose a new one. Elliott Collins, who has ruled the tribe many years, finally was defeated after a three year fight. Elijah Elk of Coleman was selected to succeed him. Collins later declared the ouster proceedings were illegal and has indicated he may fight to regain his place.

Manistique—The Inwood school forest, donated by V. W. Bayles of Dubuque, Iowa, was dedicated at a program held on May 27 in the Cooks school.

Gladstone—Bob Norcus, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Norcus, will be a member of the 1930 graduating class at Purdue university. He majored in chemical engineering and after graduation will assume a position with the Mead Pulp and Paper company at Chillicothe, Ohio.

Escanaba—Henry L. Rose, Delta county's representative in the state legislature, announced yesterday he would be a candidate for nomination to the office of state representative in the Republican primaries to be held Sept. 9.

Civilian Defense 'Would Be Problem In Atom War

BY MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—When W. Stuart Symington was named chairman of the National Security Resources Board, neither he nor anyone else can have been wholly aware of what a fantastically difficult and demanding assignment it was. In the weeks that have intervened, the realization of this has been weighing down on the chairman.

CHILDS

In order to try to put the picture together in peace and quiet, Symington has gone off to his country place outside St. Louis. In this retreat he is poring over a mass of reports, proposals, plans, charts. When he returns, he hopes to have at least the rudiments of an overall plan for the most perplexing of the problems he faces.

That is the civilian defense of America's cities in the event of atomic bombing in a third world war. Merely to state the terms of this problem is to come up against its overwhelming scope.

Since he took over the chairmanship, Symington has been pressed on the one hand by those who have demanded that he produce immediately a master system to insure the safety of every citizen. City officials such as Mayor Robertson of San Francisco have criticized the NSRB chairman for delay. On the other hand, others have said that since any defense is virtually impossible, the effort had best be abandoned. This led to reports, which are not true, that it had in fact been given up.

Air Space Not Policed
Anything like a complete defense would mean such revolutionary changes as to alter entirely the nature of our free society. It would have to be made over into a pattern of total control exercised by the central government. Those who have given careful study to atomic defense, such as Senator Brien McMahon, chairman of the Atomic Energy Committee, have long realized that this was the deadly paradox at the heart of the problem.

An atomic bombing could come by sneak attack in the fashion of Pearl Harbor. The air space over the United States is not policed. Planes are requested to file their flight plans. But they are not compelled to do so. And the radar network to be put around North America is still in a beginning stage.

The contrast with the Soviet Union is striking. With one exception, foreign planes are forbidden to fly over Russian territory. The one exception is the plane used by the American Ambassador which is kept in Berlin. When the Ambassador wants the plane to come to Moscow for him, he must file a request five days in advance; a Russian navigator must be aboard the plane and its flight path is limited to a narrow corridor.

The belief is that the five-day notice is necessary so that anti-aircraft batteries and fighter defense units of the Soviet air force will be alerted and will not shoot down the alien plane. We saw what happened when a U. S. Navy plane with a new and special reconnaissance equipment flew across the Baltic on a flight path way outside the territorial waters of the Soviet Union but close enough in the Russian view, to violate the secrecy of fortified areas.

Bombs in Boats
Atom bombs could also be delivered by secreting them in the hulls of freighters sent into American ports. This has long been considered feasible. A law now on the statute books forbids any inspection of the contents of a ship's hold until after it has been in port for 90 days.

In any event, inspection in crowded ports such as New York, Boston or San Francisco would be all but impossible. What do you do then? Do you shut off all foreign trade? If you do that, the great seaport cities will wither away.

These are some of the questions that have been put up to Symington. He has also been confronted with the extraordinary compartmentalization of American life in terms of state and municipal boundaries. Thus, a doctor licensed in one state may not come into another state to practice.

Fire Fighting Problems
The size of fire hose and fire hose couplings vary from city to city and state to state. Because of this, it would be impossible for the fire-fighting apparatus of one community to help put out a conflagration in another community.

This is just to suggest a few of the difficulties that immediately confront the defense planners. At the same time, they have had some pretty thorough estimates made of what the destruction would be. For example, one modern type atomic bomb dropped in the center of one of America's largest cities would produce the most appalling number of casualties. A careful estimate has been made for one of America's cities which is classified secret, and why it should be hard to understand.

By the end of June, Symington hopes to have the outline of a plan ready to present to the President. How far it will go is at the moment anyone's guess. The question can perhaps be phrased more realistically in terms of how far it can go and win public acceptance within the framework of the America we have known.

The Chemical Plant school held its annual school picnic Wednesday in Pioneer Trail Park. The children enjoyed their pot luck lunch at noon and were treated to ice cream in the afternoon. Races for the different classes and little tots were held. Some of the mothers attended the picnic and helped Mrs. William Pintal, the teacher, in serving the children.

Four To Attend State VFW Meet

Will Ask For 1951 State Convention

Four Escanabans will attend the 31st annual encampment of the Michigan V. F. W. in Grand Rapids June 1 to June 4. More than 5,000 Veterans of foreign wars, its auxiliary and their families are expected to attend.

E. J. Kallio, commander of the Escanaba post and senior district vice commander; Mrs. Ernest Rudolph, retiring auxiliary president; Herbert Johnson and Ernest Rudolph will attend from Escanaba.

Kallio and Johnson, the Escanaba's Post's official delegates, will make a bid for the 1951 state convention and ask that it be held in Escanaba. "At least 5,000 persons would be in the city for such a convention," Commander Kallio stated today.

A new slate of state officers will be elected and policies for the organization for the next year will be set at this convention. Principal feature of the encampment will occur Friday when Charles S. Mott, Flint industrialist will be presented with the highest merit award for his community programs developed under the Mott Foundation. Herbert W. DeVine, state V. F. W. commander, will make the presentation.

Speakers will include S. L. A. Marshall of Detroit, widely-known military writer; Gov. G. Mennen Williams, and Frank Hilton, national junior vice commander of the VFW.

The convention schedule calls for memorial services, a parade, drum and bugle corps competition and a military ball.

G. Edwin Slater, Detroit attorney, is next in line for the office of state commander.

Republican Budget Fake, Says Governor

LANSING — (AP) — Governor Williams opened fire today on the allotment system by which the Republican legislature hopes to stretch its "economy" budget to cover state operations for a year.

Williams said that he had confirmation that the budget "is a fake."

Under the new budget, the legislature instructed the state administrative board to assume its responsibility to allocate appropriations to state institutions and agencies on a periodic basis as needed, rather than allow the Democratic administration, through the budget office, to allocate on a monthly basis.

Speaker of the House Victor A. Knox (R-Sault Ste. Marie) has charged that State Controller

Robert F. Steadman hoped to "wreck" the budget by allowing agencies to overspend in the first months of the fiscal year and then run short later.

Williams said that the state department of social welfare has asked for almost a third of its next year's appropriation to be released July 1 for use in the first quarter of the fiscal year.

"This obviously confirms," Williams said, "the fact that the legislature's 'economy' in welfare appropriations is a fake. It has appropriated only enough for nine or ten months of the year."

"The welfare commission has no choice but to ask for what it needs to meet welfare costs. The law specifically provides that no eligible person is to be denied old age benefits, aid to the blind, aid to dependent children and so forth."

He charged that the legislature next year will have to meet a welfare deficiency and end up spending more for welfare than is spent now.

The governor scheduled a special meeting of the administrative board for tomorrow to discuss ways and means of "minimizing the damage done to state services" by the budget cuts. He said Steadman would ask board approval to make quarterly instead of monthly allotments to agencies to give them more financial flexibility.

At the same time, Republican board members, meeting with the chairmen of the legislative appropriations committees, agreed to instruct Steadman to call for allotment schedules from all agencies and to submit them for their approval. The allotment previously have always been made by the budget director and controller.

Williams said the controller planned to exercise his authority to let institutions keep 85 percent of their receipts from the sale of meals to employees. This will give state institutions an additional $200,000, the governor said, and "perhaps by careful use of this money, we can keep the quantity and quality of food in state institutions close to a level of health and decency."

Will Blacktop Fairbanks Road

Three Miles Of 483 To Be Surfaced

Three miles of County Road No. 483 in Fairbanks township will be blacktopped this summer by the Delta county road commission in a project financed largely by the township, it was announced today.

William J. Karas, county road commission superintendent-engineer, said the formal agreement with the township for the $6,982.36 project was signed today.

The blacktop will start at a point just south of Fayette and continue south on the county road for three miles. This section was selected because of the large number of residences in that area.

Work will start in July, depending on the weather.

Of the total $6,982.36 cost, the township will pay $5,000 which includes the labor cost and 20 percent of the equipment rental and the total cost of the oil to be used in blacktopping the road. The cost of the oil alone is $2,700. The county road commission will furnish the necessary gravel, the men and equipment.

It was also reported that cost estimates are being prepared by the road commission on proposed gravel resurfacing work in Baldwin, Bay de Noc and Maple Ridge townships. The townships have requested the information to determine if they will sponsor the projects.

School Board Election At Rapid River June 12

RAPID RIVER—An election for the purpose of selecting two members of the Rapid River rural agricultural school board will be held at the Rapid River township hall June 12.

Terms of Mrs. Ray Callahan of Rapid River and Sheldon Cobb of Stonington are expiring. Both have served the past two years. Mrs. Callahan, who served one year as secretary, has filed application for re-election. William Carroll of Stonington has filed an application to succeed Mr. Cobb who is not a candidate for re-election.

Mrs. Callahan is a former teacher in Brampton and Baldwin townships. Mr. Carroll moved to Stonington five years ago from Detroit. He attended high school at Waterville, O., is married and has four children and is president of the Stonington PTA. He bought and lives on what is known as the Barquist farm at Stonington.

Fish Taken In Raids On Nets

Walleye Controversy Breeding Trouble

Nocturnal raids on commercial fishing nets off Ford River and at Wilsey Bay and the theft of wall-eyes were taken from the latest controversy between commercial and sports fishermen.

At least the net raiding incidents are so viewed by investigating officers and the commercial fishermen.

The controversy is over a proposal that certain areas along the shore of Little and Big Bay de Noc and Green bay be restricted to hook and line fishing only. This proposal was presented to the recent special session of the legislature but was bottled in committee and did not get a hearing.

Sheriff's officers, state police and conservation officers investigated reports from commercial fishermen at Ford River that between 400 and 500 pounds of wall-eyes were taken from their nylon gill nets the night of May 29.

The nets are owned by Elmer Larson, Roscoe Pratt, Louis and Roger Richards and were set about three miles out in the bay on an outer reef off Ford River. In removing the fish, the nets were torn and damaged.

Today conservation officers received a report that commercial fishing nets had been lifted at Wilsey Bay at the tip of the Stonington peninsula and the wall-eyes removed.

Besides the ill-feeling between the hook and line and commercial fishermen, there is an apparent animosity between the local commercial fishermen and the "outsiders" in the business who have moved into northern Green bay waters within the past couple years.

Commercial fishermen, including a number from Wisconsin and Lower Michigan ports, have been attracted here by the improved fishing in recent years.

Tension Mounts; Defiant Japanese Reds Call Strike

20,000 students from 50 universities are expected to join the protest.

Police all over Japan have been alerted for new outbreaks of Red violence.

Trial Speeded Up—The English language Nippon Times editorialized: "If the Reds are asking for trouble they will get it."

Occupation headquarters was grim. "The Communists had better behave," one official growled. The occupation struck back swiftly after the Plaza incident. Before the Communists had finished their parading and virulent speechmaking, white-helmeted American military police moved in swinging nightsticks and arrested six Japanese. These were identified from news pictures taken at the Plaza brawl.

Two others were arrested later when a mob marched to police headquarters and demanded their release.

A three-man military tribunal was summoned and the eight were placed on trial less than 24 hours after the violent outbreak.

Judge Evicts Tomcats In 16-Room Mansion

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — (AP) — Three tomcats today were without the luxury of living in a 16-room mansion they had occupied alone for more than a year.

The big house, a probate judge ruled, is better suited for human habitation. So he evicted the cats. Mrs. Sophie H. S. Howarth, who died in April, 1949, specified in her will that the cats live in the mansion and that Miss Elizabeth Bernie be paid $10 a week to come each day and care for them. But yesterday, with the approval of all principals involved in the Howarth estate, Miss Bernie was given the cats—and $4,000 to care for them in her own home.

Geiger counters now are being used to measure snow depths. Actually the snow itself is not radioactive, but a bit of radioactive cobalt is placed beneath it. By recording how much the clicking of the Geiger counter decreases or increases, the depth of the snow bank can be determined accurately.

Miss Frances Oaken of Marquette spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oaken.

Critic Of Pentagon, Crommelin To Enter Politics In Alabama

PENSACOLA, Fla. — (AP) — The way has been cleared for Navy Capt. John G. Crommelin, severe critics of Pentagon policies, to enter Alabama politics.

Papers were signed yesterday at the Pensacola Naval air station ending his active naval career. He had requested retirement ending his two decades of active service.

Crommelin, an outstanding World War II naval aviator, announced recently he will be a candidate for U. S. Senator on an independent ticket in the November general election. Sen. Lister Hill won Democratic nomination in the May 2 primaries.

Crommelin was outspoken in his criticism of national defense policies last year during the Navy-Air Force row. He was fur-loughed by the Navy at half pay April 1 because of his public expressions against the place accorded the Navy in the unification program.

Student Orders Eggs, Then Kills Grocer At Independence, Kansas

INDEPENDENCE, Kas. — (AP) — A junior college sociology student ordered a dozen eggs in a grocery store last night, then killed the proprietor as he started to fill the order.

The student, 32-year-old Wade Griffith, was charged with first degree murder shortly after he voluntarily gave himself up to police.

The grocer, Herbert Scott, 55, was Griffith's ex-brother-in-law. Assistant County Attorney Tom Crossan said the student signed a statement admitting the shooting and blaming it on a long grudge with members of his ex-wife's family.

The Griffiths were divorced two years ago.

Crossan quoted Griffith as saying the Scott family refused to let him talk to his son, Lawrence, 3. Mrs. Griffith has custody of the child.

German Housewife Finds It Hard To Get Along

By ROBERT BALL
GAIENHOFFEN, Germany — American housewives might envy Mrs. Emil Buck the house she and her family live in—a picturesque, half-timbered, South German farmhouse. They would likely not envy her the housework, an inconvenient, applianceless routine of cooking on a wood range and washing with tub and scrub board. Mrs. Buck does not mind the housework; she's used to that. But in the last few years, like all European housewives, she has had difficulties nourishing and clothing a family on what her husband earned. For well-to-do families, these difficulties are now over, but for low-income families like the Bucks, they will remain. In the cities such families simply tighten their belts and their pocketbooks; in the country, like the Bucks, they try to produce more and buy less of the food and clothing they need.

Earns $20 Monthly
For delivering the mail in the village of Gaienhofen, Mr. Buck earns $20 a month; as caretaker of a summer cottage on the nearby Lake of Constance he adds $25 more. That is all there is to feed and clothe the family: Johanna 15, who has finished the public school and wants to become a seamstress; Hildegard, 14, who will be through school in June; Walter 11, and Josef, who will be 10 in August. I sat at the table in the pine-paneled, lace-curtained "good room." The table is the center of the household; there meals are eaten; there under the only electric light in the room, the children do their homework, the father reads the paper and the mother knits; there, evening visitors like me are invited to sit.

"We can't afford to buy much in the way of food," Mrs. Buck began. "In the summer we depend almost entirely on vegetables from our garden—spinach, lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, beans and turnips."

None of the summer surplus is allowed to go to waste. The beans and turnips Mrs. Buck boils in jars for winter consumption. "Lots of the women here put the beans up in salt," she said, "but I don't like that. By the time you've soaked them out, all the strength has gone out of them." Besides the vegetables, the Bucks dry fruit every year, and Mrs. Buck puts up about 100 quarts of fruit for the winter. At 15 cents a pound, sugar for these preserves takes a large bite from the food budget.

Mrs. Buck bakes bread in the huge green tile stove that warms the living room. Bakery bread is too expensive.

Monotonous Diet
The Buck family diet might seem monotonous to Americans. Breakfast is the usual European bread and coffee. American mothers may be shocked to know that the Buck youngsters always get their morning milk mixed with coffee. But in any case the milk is fresh. It comes from the Bucks' goat. The noon meal is the big one: soup, fried potatoes or corn grits, a vegetable and a salad. At night, warmed-up leftovers or simply potatoes and salad, with coffee or tea to drink. The coffee is a peacetime "Ersatz" of roasted barley and chicory. Eggs from the six chickens provide occasional protein.

Not all the fruit goes into preserves. Part of the apples and pears are reserved for making Mr. Buck's annual keg of cider, which is allowed to ferment to rock-like strength. "My husband likes a glass to start the day and another in the evening," Mrs. Buck explained.

Sunday is the big day in the weekly diet, the only day when meat is on the table. Ordinarily it is two pounds of beef for the six Bucks, the meat serving first as base for a noodle soup and then as a course in its own right.

What a dietitian would say about the Bucks' diet, I don't know, but the children are chunky, and pink-cheeked; they have good teeth, and the two boys look as if they could lick anybody their age in the village. Mrs. Buck's own dietetic theory rests on a little extra cooking fat. "I think it's better to splurge a little in that direction when I have food money left over," she said.

"Hoover Meals"
Most of the extra pennies she has been able to splurge on cooking fat she feels she owes to the "Hoover Meals" (a once-a-day hot snack provided to West German school children through a grant of ex-President Hoover). "When the children get cocoa or hot soup at 10 o'clock on school days, I can cut corners a little on breakfast and dinner," she explained.

Mrs. Buck is grateful too for clothing received from America, part of a shipment sent by the Owosso, Michigan, Zonta Club. At mention of this, the youngest Buck grinned and pointed at his shirt. His mother smiled. "The cotton things were very welcome," she said. "Jackets, sweaters and socks I can knit, but—" Just then Johanna Buck demanded her mother's assistance in threading a needle. Mrs. Buck slipped the thread deftly through the eye. "Knitting and sewing are my pastimes," she said. "I don't suppose I get to the city (eight miles away) once in six months, but then, what we have to buy for the house, we buy from peddlers, so there's really no need for me to go."

Flies To Norway

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will leave by plane Saturday for a one-month European tour. She will attend the unveiling of a statue in Oslo, Norway, on June 7 of her late husband.

The airplane is proving itself as an economical and efficient farm and forestry tool. In spraying operations, a single plane treated, in a half hour, an area seven or eight times as great as would have been covered by a ground crew in a normal spray season of about six weeks.

Labor News Good For Job-Hunting College Graduates

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK—(AP)—Fewer layoffs, higher job totals, longer work weeks and therefore greater take-home pay are reported. This is pleasant news for the half-million college graduates hitting the job-hunting trail.

Most observers warn them that the trail will be rougher and longer than any time since the end of the war. But the pickup in business generally makes the prospect brighter than it was at mid-term.

Crop Hits Record
Four out of every five college graduates this year will be employed by Oct. 1, the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. of Minneapolis predicts today. It bases this on estimates of placement officials in a survey of 12 colleges and universities.

The senior crop is at a record high, and pre-graduation hiring has been slower this year in most schools. Large companies have been taking fewer new employees per firm, placement officials say. But many schools report a sharp increase this spring in the number of smaller companies seeking college graduates.

Success in placing this year's crop of technological graduates is reported in Atlanta by the Associated Industries of Georgia. The association works closely with Georgia's educational institutions in finding jobs for graduates.

Salaries Higher

However, most colleges have been warning their graduates this spring that they will have to hunt harder and longer for jobs than did last year's class. But the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. contends that, even so, this will be a better year for the job-seeking college graduate than was considered normal before the war.

Its survey also shows that four out of every five schools report that starting salaries of their graduates this year will be as high as in 1949, and those reporting a drop say it is very slight.

The statistical news is heartening for the June grad. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports today that manufacturing plants had fewer layoffs in April than in any month since October, 1948. The rate of dismissals fell to 13 per thousand in April, a year before it was 28 for every thousand.

Texas Town Takes Day In Park To Build One

By NEA Service
KERRVILLE, Tex.—(NEA)—Before dawn, the diesel coughs of bulldozers and graders echoed from across the Quadaupe river to wake up the little city of Kerrville.

By 7 a. m., nearly half the city's 5000 residents had joined the bulldozers—not as sidewalk superintendents, but as volunteer workers. And by sundown, Kerrville had a 35-acre park.

Mrs. Robert S. Hays was there to turn the first spadeful of earth, and later she watched a plate with the name "Louise Hays Park" attached at the main entrance to the tract.

Schoolboys, laborers, white collar workers and professional men—plus a lot of women—were there, too, in overalls and dungarees. Maurice Stovall, a teenage girl, took a turn at driving a big tractor. Gus McKee, superintendent of the Lower Colorado River authority, put on some old clothes and wired the master control boxes for the park's lighting system.

This was Kerrville's "Build a Park in a Day" project, and when it was over, only a few minor finishing touches remained to be done.

Along the wooded river front, which had been vacant land at dawn, there was now a 100x150 foot concrete dance floor, later to become a pavilion; two rest rooms, slides, swings, merry-go-rounds, benches, picnic tables and barbecue pits.

All these grew from the gift of oilman Robert Hays, a newcomer to Kerrville, who donated the 35-acre tract to the city with two stipulations: that it be made into a park, and that it be named for his wife, Louise.

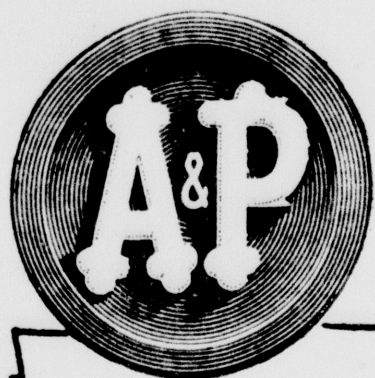

Kerrville's citizens did the rest. They figured it would have cost about $170,000 for the same results if there had been no volunteer spirit. Instead, manpower, mechanical equipment and even gasoline to run it, were donated.

Actual construction materials, such as concrete and wiring, were sold to the city at cost.

And, the day after everybody went to work you could walk down the steps that lead from downtown Kerrville to the riverfront and step across a new pontoon bridge to the park that grew in a day.

Luminous ceilings, made of plastic through which glareless light comes, may be the lighting system of the future. Mounting many lamps behind a translucent plastic is the most completely adequate way of lighting a room.

Memphis, Tenn., is the world's largest mule market.

Grand Canyon And Trip West
Described By Mrs. Manntie

Mrs. Walter Manntie, Rock news editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, continues her travel letters from Yellowstone National Park:

"When we left the Grand Canyon it was with the hope that some day we could return and spend more time exploring its wonders.

"We stayed two days or rather one day and two nights but that is not enough time to see all of it. In order to obtain the finest and most spectacular views it is necessary to do down into the depths of the chasm on mule packs to camp there over night or for several days. But you get awe-inspiring sights by taking the rim drives and at the observation stations are a battery of high powered telescopes for your convenience.

"The Grand Canyon is the world's most spectacular example of the power of erosion, a chasm of 217 miles in length, 10 miles average width and having an average depth of about a mile. It was made a national park in 1909. They say that Indians still live their primitive lives in the Canyon and have never been out of it.

"This fantastic creation of immense walls and gigantic rock temples in glowing colors must, indeed, be one of the Old Master Painter's masterpieces.

Mountain Driving
"Thirty-eight states were represented at the Lodge the day we were there and there also were visitors from Canada. The Grand Canyon Park is fairly well able to care for the tourist, having a hotel, a lodge, a whole village of cabins and a trailer park. Meals could be had at the hotel and lodge or at the cafeteria located near the trailer camp. We stayed in one of the lodge cabins and ate our meals in the lodge dining room with the exception of one evening's dinner at the hotel and a noon lunch at the cafeteria. It almost seemed to me that the park tries to cater to all classes. The hotel up high on a hill for the big fellow, the lodge and cabins in the middle for the average and the trailer park and cafeteria down below for the benefit of those with trailers and for those who wished for more economy.

"We have had some high mountain driving by now, even before reaching the Grand Canyon. The roads wind around and up the sides of the mountains, 12,000 feet high and the view is both terrifying and breathtaking in its beauty.

"It is surprising to us how many tourists are on the road. It seems as if half of the population is on wheels. Every time a Michigan car passes us they blow their horn.

"In Las Vegas you can dine for $1.50 a plate even in the swankiest night clubs. No cover charge is made. Gambling keeps the town booming and the idea is to charge moderately for eats to attract visitors. The gambling places were all like bee hives, both the common ones open off the street and the more exclusive with thick carpets. We visited the Flamingo, the most exclusive and also one or two of the common variety. We watched in amazement. To us the scene seemed fantastic and unreal. Women in house dresses playing the slot machines like in a frenzy. Some with babies under their arm jerking away like mad. Others, both men and women, throwing dice or playing some of the many other gambling devices. All intent and serious. Not a smile anywhere. Some were dressed in ordinary everyday work clothes. Others, more sophisticated, in evening clothes. Some were very ragged and dirty. One very old woman was shoeless.

"After watching the scene for a while Laurel said, 'This is silly, isn't it?' We agreed that it was and we went back to the cabin and to bed.

Desert Country
"Leaving Las Vegas in the morning we crossed the last stretch of desert on our way to the coast. On the south lies the Devil's Playground and Death Valley is on the north. As this desert area is very low and lies between two mountain ranges it was very hot. This stretch is real desert. All sand in big hills and no vegetation of any kind.

"We had our first cloudy weather when we dropped down from the mountains into the coast area. Walter's sister, Edna, and her husband, Charles Nichols, live in Azusa which is suburb of Los Angeles. Azusa, Pasadena and the other suburbs are located in the beautiful foothills.

"During the week we stayed with the Nichols it remained cloudy but did not rain. The sun came out the morning we left. The Californians called it fog. Others called it smog. We were amazed when one North Californian gleefully told us 'That's not fog. That's smog they have down there.'

"Charlie took us to a nearby orange grove the very next morning so we had the pleasure of picking the fruit off the trees. The oranges were exceptionally large and sweet.

"One day we went to Santa Anita to the races. This was a thrill for Laurel who has always liked horses. The Santa Anita race track is beautiful. It's located in the foothills with the mountains forming a background. The day we went there must have been some 10,000 to 12,000 people although it's off season for races.

We amused ourselves by picking out the winner in each race. It happened that I picked out the winning horse in three successive races. I began to be important. People around me began to ask questions. Laurel said, 'Mother, you ought to bet on the next race.' But I felt, like the little boy in the story, that if I started betting

I would lose my knowledge.

Saw Bill Cooke
"In the seventh race was a horse by the name of Laurette. Surely that was a good omen. I didn't like the looks of the horse but that name must mean something. So Laurel and Edna bet a dollar a piece and lost. In the next race Laurel and Walter bet a dollar a piece and won eight dollars. We went home. We had had a lovely day.

"Sunday we all went to see the Bill Cooke family in Inglewood. They are former well known residents of Rock. They in turn came to call at the Nicholas home a couple of evenings later. The Cooke family are doing fine in California. Wayne, the oldest son, is a professional boxer now and he has a room full of trophies. Mrs. Cooke or 'Googs' runs a garden shop. They asked us to greet all their Delta county friends.

"We left Azusa to begin our trip northward along the coast. Our route took us through Hollywood and Beverly Hills. We were told that if we stay over a couple of days we could get on or at least witness some of the radio programs sent out from there. We were not too interested so we moved along, our next destination, the Redwoods."

Fresh frosting need not run off the top and down the sides of a cake if you dust flour across the cake as soon as you've put the frosting on. Use just enough to make the frosting congeal without altering the taste of the cake.

"HIGH" OFFICIALS LEND A HAND — These lucky German youngsters almost got into the "wild blue yonder" before they took their helicopter spin as guests of the U. S. Air Force at Tempelhof Air Base, Berlin. Attendants on tall stilts gave the kiddies a lift into the 'copter. The treat was part of an Air Force "Open house."

PERSONAL SERVICE — A flight from New York to Phoenix, Ariz., proved too long a haul for "Bossy," the prize Guernsey cow en route to join the herd of J. J. Rasch, Jr. "Bossy" needed milking, so TWA cargo agent Harold Mason performed the service at the Kansas City, Mo., airport. Her load lightened, a more contented Guernsey continued the flight.

PRACTICES VANISHING ART — Cigar making, traditionally associated with the Deep south, is being practiced on Northern Michigan. Frank LaMora still makes cigars by hand in Marquette, where there were 42 cigar makers at the turn of the century. Today LaMora is the sole practitioner of the art in his city. He is shown here inspecting wrapper leaf that will cover his cigars. (AP Photo)

Senior Girl Scouts Busy

Plan Troop Camping; Very Active In May

May was a busy month for the Senior Girl Scout troop of Gladstone and June also promises considerable activity for the girls.

Troop camping will be held at Round Lake for the girls from June 25 to July 1 with Mrs. E. A. D'Amour and Mrs. Ray Gazlay in charge. They are planning a program of camp living with swimming, nature study and dramatics coming in for a share of activity.

At present they are preparing to assist the Gladstone Girl Scouts to entertain the Intermediate and Senior Scouts of Delta county at the city park on June 21.

One of the highlights of May's activities was the woodland supper at the Day Camp site at which the girls entertained their fathers. A camp program with beanhole, nature trail and campfire featured the get-together. Mary Ellen Sepic was general chairman, Theresa Harris in charge of invitations, Sue D'Amour and Rosemary Willis the beanhole, Beatrice Brusoe the cooking sticks, Nancy Martin and Kay DeHooghe were hoppers, Pat Hanson and the doughboys, Mary Alice Kroust and Mary Lee Mackie took charge of the nature trail and Janet Sinclair and Pat Lesser handled the clean-up.

Last weekend the girls assisted the American Legion Auxiliary in the local sale of poppies with Beatrice Brusoe in charge. The girls appeared for the first time in their new Senior Scout uniforms.

Earlier in the month there was a citywide play day at which the senior scouts entertained the Brownies and Intermediates of Gladstone. Sue D'Amour was chairman assisted by Rosemary Willis. On May 24 the girls had their last social meeting of the year, a potluck supper at the Recreation building. Pat Hanson served as chairman.

Harold Apelgren Gets Big Walleye

Urge Fluoride For City Water

Question Raised At Coffee Hour

The question of the advisability of adding fluoride to the city water supply as a means of cutting the number of dental caries was read at the Coffee Hour Wednesday morning.

City Manager H. J. Henriksen explained that at the present time a lower Michigan city in cooperation with the State Health Department and the Federal Health Service is conducting an experiment to determine the advisability of treating water supplies.

The city manager said that it has been found that fluoride, one part to a million parts water, has proved beneficial in lowering the amount of dental cavities in persons drinking this water, but also that heavier amounts of fluoride has resulted in mottling of the enamel on the teeth.

He said that at the present time the Michigan State Health Department will not recommend nor object to use of fluorides by city water departments.

Bus Accident Mars Record

First Holiday Mishap In County In Years

The serious motor mishap, in which a Greyhound bus turned over and injured many, is the first serious accident to occur during a holiday season in the Manistique area in more than five years.

Except for this accident, the record here would have still remained clear. There were a few mishaps of a minor nature but none of these resulted in injury to anyone.

Louis Losey, 42, of Germfask, lost his bearings while fishing in the Seney area and spent the night in a heavily brushed country. A search for him was being organized, but he returned home about ten o'clock Wednesday morning.

Highway traffic was unusually heavy over the weekend, beautiful weather prevailing throughout the three days.

Rev. Herbert Gives Memorial Day Address

Americans are inclined to remember what they should forget and forget what they should remember, the Rev. G. A. Herbert, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, said in the course of his Memorial Day address at the school stadium Tuesday morning.

History is full of examples of this human tendency, Rev. Herbert stated, asserting that often harm has resulted from it.

He cited an instance in early Bible history when the Children of Israel set up a great pile of stones as a monument to remind coming generations that they had been blessed and that those came after them should follow the ways of the Lord. Future generations failed to heed this reminder and what happened to these people is history.

Americans, he said, should hold in loving memory those who sacrificed and the veterans in our government hospitals who are still suffering the ill fortunes of war and keep in mind the ideals for which they sacrificed themselves.

The Rev. William Schobert, pastor of the First Baptist church, presided at the exercises. Rev. Paul Sobel of the Presbyterian church, delivered the invocation and Rev. S. B. Dickinson the benediction.

The Manistique municipal band and the high school band provided music. Color guards were furnished by the various veteran organizations and the local National Guard unit.

A colorful Memorial day parade preceded the exercises.

Central Michigan Gives Scholarship To Joyce McNamara

Miss Joyce McNamara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McNamara, 702 Oak street, has been awarded a scholarship to Central Michigan College of Education at Mt. Pleasant.

Miss McNamara, an honor student of this year's graduating class, has been active in extra curricular activities. She has served as cheerleader for four years; member of the Girls' Glee Club of which she was a soloist; the Girls' Ensemble; band and journalism.

The scholarship is renewable if a high scholastic average is maintained.

Off The Chest . . .

By JAY ARRELL

Manistique Memorial Day exercises were impressive and altogether appropriate. The parade, with its massed colors, its bands, its veterans, its Gold Star Mothers and its pageantry, was inspiring. The exercises at the stadium were worthy of a far larger audience—especially of adults. But somehow, the spirit of Memorial day was sadly lacking.

There has been considerable comment on this and most of it seems to convey a desire that the exercises in the future, as has been the case almost all of the years in the past, be conducted at the cemetery.

Memorial day exercises should be of a reverent nature and nothing can impart that patriotic reverence as much as the sight of a flag decked and garlanded grave. The old Civil War Veterans, who cherished this occasion more than anyone else, would have it no other way.

City Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Jackson, of Ottawa, Canada, are expected to arrive in Manistique some time next week for a visit at the Clifford Jackson home. Later Mr. Jackson will join them in a trip to Brainerd, Minnesota, for a visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Carol LaVigne, who arrived here from Washington, D.C. to spend the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. LaVigne, left Tuesday for Dayton, O., where she will be employed.

Miss Betty Tebo, student nurse at St. Luke's hospital in Marquette, has spent the past three weeks here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Tebo, Delta avenue. She left the first of the week, accompanied by Miss Betty Fellow of Laurium, for Detroit where they will spend their affiliation period at the Women's Receiving hospital.

Miss Lois Stephens, who spent the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stephens, left Wednesday to return to Green Bay where she is attending a business college.

First Career Day A Success

Local Residents Take Part In Discussions

Career day—an occasion devoted to conferences between high school students and local business and professional men—was held at Manistique high school Monday.

This was the first time anything of the sort was ever tried here and the interest shown has greatly impressed its sponsors.

Questionnaires had previously been distributed among the student body and each student was invited to indicate a number of careers he or she was particularly interested in. Later men and women identified with these different vocations met and discussed the vocations' nature and gave advice to the students as to what they might expect.

The days exercises began with a general assembly in the morning with Dr. Wilbur West, of the Northern Michigan College of Education, at Marquette, addressing the students.

Manistique High School seniors visit Mackinac Island.

Manistique high school seniors made a bus trip Wednesday to Mackinac Island and spent the day visiting the historical and scenic spots for which the place is noted.

One of the features that appealed particularly to them was a tour of inspection of the Grand Hotel, which is not as yet officially opened for guests and therefore provided a better opportunity to make a better inspection of the premises.

A picnic dinner was served at a park at St. Ignace.

Carl Olson, principal accompanied the young people on the trip.

Cannot Be Two Places At The Same Moment

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jackson have had to compromise with their two sons, Harold and Clifford, Jr., so as not to show partiality toward one or the other.

Both are graduating from two different colleges at the same time. Harold will receive his bachelor arts degree from the Michigan State College at East Lansing on Thursday and Clifford graduates from the Michigan Tech at Houghton at about the same time.

So the parents have compromised. Mrs. Jackson will be at the East Lansing exercises and Mr. Jackson will be at Houghton. Harold is a member of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity and has been senior advisor of Boy Scouts at Lansing. Clifford, upon his graduation, will be employed with the Prescott Manufacturing company at Menominee.

Attendance In Majors Shows Sharp Decline

NEW YORK—(P)—Whether it's the weather, television or lack of ready cash, baseball attendance continues to dip.

Last year the average attendance for a major league game through April and May was 18,123. This year it's 15,714. That represents a 13 per cent decline.

At this date a year ago the two majors had drawn 5,056,425 as compared to 3,928,509. This is a 22 per cent drop. However, the clubs have been able to play only 250 home dates this spring compared to 279 last year.

Only club of the 16 majors to show an increase, despite all difficulties, is the Philadelphia Phillies. Buoyed by the fine early showing of Eddie Sawyer's crew, the Phils attracted 219,773 at home in their first 14 dates. Last year they had 210,785 for 19 dates.

Look at the New York Giants. They're 200,000 behind but have five more dates to play before they will be even in games with the fine 1949 season.

The Boston Braves also have suffered. On the same number of games each year, they drew 213,184 this year to 317,166 last. This, despite new faces and new spirit.

All three big money makers in the American league—New York, Cleveland and Detroit—are behind their 1949 figures. Chicago trails off badly.

And St. Louis. Something is going to have to be done there. The Browns are doing worse than last year when they wound up with only 310,000 for the year.

The Browns hit bottom for the year Monday afternoon when only 624 paid to see them play Chicago. It wasn't too much better for the holiday doubleheader that attracted 3,537. It looks like that $200,000 for Gerry Priddy and the $100,000 for Bob Dillinger and Paul Lehner will come in handy. But who are they going to sell next year?

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (P) — The U. of Missouri is coming up with another good distance runner, and they don't need a poll to tell you Pete Gallup will make an excellent mate for Bill McGuire... as a freshman this spring he ran a 4:20.6 mile to beat McGuire's best yearling time and a 9:35.9 two miles that surpassed John Munski's freshman record... Baseball scouts at the district 4-NCAA playoffs will have their eyes on John Bishop, a pint-sized catcher who batted .369 for Ohio U. this spring... Seems that Bishop can sock that old biscuit.

One-Minute Sports Page
Baseball experts are looking for that White Sox-Senators trade to touch off a whole series of deals. But the two clubs claim they'll keep what they got... And, speaking of trades, Al Dark, who now is in a terrific slump, was the reason that Giants-Braves deal took so long last winter. Braves owner Lou Perini didn't want to part with Al... The U. of Virginia is preparing for big football crowds next fall by renumbering the stadium seats to put two more people in each row... At that the customers will get two inches more than they usually do.

Bingo!
At the windup of Cornell's spring football practice, Coach Lefty James figured his defenses were way ahead of the offense. So he staged an intra-squad game and the "Whites" beat the "Reds" 39-33... The Harlingen, Tex., ball park in the Rio Grande valley league has lion-lighted up-rights to mark the foul lines... If a visiting player socks one just inside, they probably start flashing a bell rings and a sign comes on that says "Tilt."

Wildcats Capture Big 10 Net Crown

EVANSTON — (P) — Northwestern university's tennis team won the Western conference championship yesterday—the first team in Big Ten history to grab the crown four straight years.

The Wildcats won four of the six singles final matches and one of the three doubles finals to edge out runnerup Illinois, 19½ points to 17.

Trailing were Michigan, 14 points; Wisconsin, 7½; Indiana, 5; Purdue, 2½; Iowa and Minnesota, 1 point each. Ohio State failed to score.

Ishpeming Softball Team Here Sunday

Ishpeming Liberty Loans, one of the peninsula's classiest softball teams, will meet the young Hughes Motors team in the night-cap of a Class A doubleheader Sunday night at Memorial field. In the first game, the new Harnischfeger Red Sox will tangle with the always potent Escanaba Liberty Loans. The opener will start at 7:15 o'clock.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

One of the most pleasant things about this job is that we make so many people happy.

Take for instance, the woman who called on a busy morning. "My sister is almost in tears. Her son is on the track team and you don't give him enough credit."

A letter today from an anonymous Escanaba fan.

"You hardly say anything about the senior high school track squad. I've heard that some of the Eskymos made outstanding shows and (name omitted to avoid embarrassment to the boy mentioned) lost only by six inches."

In the same vein from one of our favorite teen-agers comes word that this column is being boycotted.

It seems that in a sports story, we mentioned that the high school baseball team was handicapped with three games in a week because one of the boys was ineligible because of studies.

Apparently, that wasn't the thing to do. Praise them when they star but don't mention it when they are lax in their studies and let their team mates down.

From another source: "Why don't you use box scores on all local area baseball games?" (Answer: Haven't the manpower, space or time to set all of them.)

Comes another one: "Run all the Bay de Noc league games in a row so we don't have to look all over the sports page for them."

Still another: "You give too much space to the Bears and Gladstone and not enough to softball."

And from baseball fans: "Why don't you give hardball a little break once in a while?"

Come the golf fans: "Why can't we get more golf news in the Press?"

From a track fan: "You're all wet on Fochesots: .09.9 in the 100 being the fastest ever run in the Upper Peninsula. Check Iron Mountain records and you'll find that Neil Reese ran a .09.8 in a Tri-county meet in 1927." (We did check Iron Mountain records and it isn't listed.)

From a Cooks fan: "Why do you give so much space to Escanaba and Gladstone teams instead of Cooks?" (Circulation department tells us there are 3,894 Press subscribers in Escanaba, 1,073 in Gladstone and 96 in Cooks.)

Says another: "Why don't you use more items about local sports people in your column?" (Asked if he had ever provided us with any such information, the objector admitted he hadn't.)

From a new Escanaba resident: "Why don't you get more major league and national sports news?" (Most of its is crowded out by local area news to satisfy fans aforementioned.)

From local baseball, softball, golf, track and tennis enthusiasts: "Why don't you cover our events personally?"

Well, why don't we?

A little music, conductor, please, such as "Hearts and Flowers".

Dilly-Dallying Must Stop

Golfers May Be Penalized Two Strokes If They Don't Speed Play

NEW YORK—(P)—Plagued by increasing slowness of play, the United States Golf association may do something pretty drastic about the problem at the national open championship at Merion next week.

There might be a summary disqualification or two, or at least some painful stroke penalties, unless the boys quit doing a "civil engineering" job on each shot, warns Joe Dey, executive secretary of the ruling body.

"The time has come when we simply must act if the game is not to be seriously injured," he asserted today. "The thing is getting completely out of hand."

"We've already been forced to cut our starting field from 171 to 162 out of an original entry list of 1,400. That means that because of slow play by some of the fellows, nine potential champions in the country will not play at all."

He presented some figures he compiled during last year's open at Chicago.

"Doesn't Make Sense"

"The first group of three players on the opening round took three hours, and 27 minutes to play the 18," he said. "The last group on the same day needed four hours and 16 minutes for the round. On the second day the last group struggled around in four hours and 21 minutes.

"That is awful, and it doesn't make sense. It hasn't been so long since three hours was considered adequate for a round. This is murder on the spectators as well as on players who wish to play at reasonable speed."

Each player at Merion will be handed a "greeting card" from John D. Ames of Chicago, chairman of the championship committee, urging him to break himself of the "bad habit" of dawdling.

Stressing that the snail's pace of some players is costing golf heavily in popularity, the open entries will be instructed to "be observant, reach your decision quickly and execute your shots with promptness and dispatch."

If this doesn't work, then Ames, Dey and other members of a mobile USGA force will don their battle helmets and sally forth, looking for bottlenecks.

May Penalize Stroke

"We won't do anything precipitately," Dey said. "When we find

Rampaging Cards Ready For Invasion Of Brooklyn Dodgers

(By The Associated Press)

Memo to Brooklyn—beware the St. Louis Cards.

Cheeks still burn on the Cardinal bench at the memory of the May 18 horrors of Ebbets Field. That was the day St. Louis blew an 8-0 lead and lost to the Dodgers, 9-8.

Strong men still blanch at the thought of Tommy Glaviano's three successive errors in the ninth inning. Glaviano and Manager Eddie Dyer never will forget it.

The experts wrote the Cards' obit the next day. They said it was the end of St. Louis as a pennant threat in 1950. Brooklyn had landed a knockout blow at St. Louis morale. They never would bounce back.

Next time the Cards played they rallied with six in the eighth inning to knock out Warren Spahn and whip Boston. The next victim was the Phillies' Robin Roberts.

And so on, down the line. Since the black day in Flatbush they have won nine of 11, hotter than any club in the league. They left Brooklyn tied for third, three games out of first. Now they're second, one game behind Brooklyn.

Tonight Is The Night
Tonight is the chance to get even. They open a three-game series with the Dodgers at Sportsman's Park. Don't say the Dodgers weren't warned. Old Cardinals don't forget.

Bowling Baffles Irish Trainer

COLUMBUS, O.—(P)—The trainer of Notre Dame's athletic teams says bowling is the "greatest challenge I've ever met in sports."

Hughie Burns of Michigan City, Ind., the Irish trainer, made his remarks after shooting in the American Bowling Congress tournament. He had 509-476-549 in his three sets.

"There are the pins down there," said Burns. "They don't move, they are just standing there. And there's the alley. It's made out of wood, like every other alley in the country. And there you are. But what happens? Something different happens on every ball."

And then he moaned in the manner of Frank Leahy before a big Notre Dame game: "I should have had a 600—."

Tigers Meet A's Tonight

Road Trip To Give Them Good Test

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—The Detroit Tigers tonight open a 12-game eastern trip that may make or break them as a top contender for the American league pennant.

Unless the Philadelphia Athletics show decided improvement, the three-game series here shouldn't be difficult. The Bengals have won all three previous games with the Athletics. But they have some tough foes to meet before they return to Briggs stadium June 13.

Southpaw Ted Gray, making his first start of the season against Philadelphia, will be going after his fifth victory. Southpaw Alex Kellner will be the Philadelphia pitcher.

The Tigers' eastern invasion also calls for three-game series in Washington, New York and Boston.

Manager Red Rolfe still has worries about his pitching staff. For 12 days Virgil Trucks' strong right arm has been idle. It developed a soreness earlier in the season after he pitched a 1-0 extra-inning victory over St. Louis. The fireballer reported a slight improvement in his arm but he is not expected to return to the mound for a few more days.

Leon Hart Visits Detroit Lions

DETROIT—(P)—Notre Dame's great end, Leon Hart, came here yesterday to look over the scene where he will start his professional football career this fall.

Following his graduation in a few days from Notre Dame, Hart will start work June 14 on a sales training job with an asphalt firm here. He will report July 21 to the All-Star camp in Chicago. He will play in the big charity game in Chicago Aug. 11 and on the following day will report to the Detroit Lions.

The Brooks can be most important. By whipping St. Louis three straight at Brooklyn they turned back the Card threat for the moment. By sweeping the holiday doubleheader from the Phillies, they repelled another threat. If they can get out of St. Louis with their lead intact, they may be able to pull away and take command.

The trip is important for Leo Durocher's Giants, too, in a different sort of way. The Polo Grounds wolves are howling for Leo's scalp although his contract runs through 1951. Going into tonight's two-night doubleheader at Cincinnati, the Giants are running a dreary seventh, nine games off the pace.

Chicago, still two games over the .500 mark, is first stop for the deflated Phillies who were knocked from first to third Tuesday. After Chicago, the Phils smack into St. Louis for three important games.

Pittsburgh Reeling

Boston finds Pittsburgh, reeling under an eight-game losing streak. Ralph Kiner's home run production slowed to a walk with only one in the last 10 days. If the Braves are to move in the race, now is their time with Sid Gordon back in the lineup.

American league box scores will be studied for the next few days to find the effects of the big Chicago-Washington deal.

The White Sox move into the white glare of the Yankee Stadium spotlights for a night game with New York which has won 17 of its last 20. After cooling off with a Decoration Day sweep, Casey Stengel is in fine shape to open a long stand against the west. Eddie Robinson, coveted by the Yanks during the winter, is to play first for Chicago. Ray Scarborough and Al Kozar also are to be with the club.

Washington will parade its new stock — second baseman Cass Michaels, outfielder Johnny Ostrowski and pitcher Bob Kuzava before the home folks. Kuzava is not supposed to start against St. Louis tonight but the others may see action. Both leagues had an open date yesterday.

African Wins Bantam Title

Trounces Ortiz In Johannesburg Ring

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — (P)—The ring world today acclaimed a new bantamweight champion — South Africa's Vic Towel.

Towel, a 23-year-old former wood carver, wrestled the crown from M-nuel Ortiz with an undisputed 15-round decision last night in Johannesburg's Wembley Stadium.

The 27,000 fans stormed the ring afterwards singing, "He's A Jolly Good Fellow."

Even Ortiz, a battle-weary ex-champion at 33, conceded he was a licked man.

The little California warrior showed definite effects of his advancing age and his 12 years in the professional ring.

The Californian seemed unable to get going in the early stages and Towel, a sharp if not a murderous puncher, piled up a big edge through the first seven rounds.

Ortiz won the brown Aug. 7, 1942 by beating Lou Salica. He lost it to Harold Dade Jan. 8, 1947 but won it back two months later. Towel, with more than 100 victories as an amateur, became an immediate pro sensation in Europe. He won the British empire 118-pound crown from Stan Rowan last November.

'Stique Beats Marines, 3-2

Nips Marinette In 10 Innings

MANISTIQUE — The Manistique Cardinals nosed out the Marinette Marines 3 to 2 in 10 innings Memorial day. The Cardinals have three wins and no losses.

Archey, Demars and Carlson led in the hitting attack, although Lesica's timely hit in the tenth inning scored White from second base to furnish the winning margin.

Norman Jahn, pitching his first game of the year, showed he may cause much trouble for Rainbow league opponents. He allowed only eight hits and kept Marinette well under control.

Pitchers Aid Cause With Home Runs

Escanaba softball pitchers can hit, too.

Ernie Vanlerberghie smashed a home run with two on base last night to aid his Merchants to defeat the Liberty Loans, 7 to 5. The winning runs came in the seventh inning when Leftfielder Don Nyquist smashed a double to score two runs. Louie Kositzke hurled for the Loans.

In another pitcher-hitter deal, Jack Courneene aided his cause with a homer with the bases loaded as the Clairmont Transfers nosed out the Kiwanis team, 12 to 10. Don Ashland pitched for the losers.

Three-hit pitching by Bob McCarthy gave the NuWay cleaners a 4-1 victory over Hughes Motors. It was the first defeat of the season for the motor crew. Jim Fitzpatrick allowed 10 hits to the cleaners.

Lansing Golfer Captains MSC

EAST LANSING — (P)—Don Perne of Lansing, who has been a regular on the Michigan State golf team for the last two seasons, has been named captain for 1951. Perne, the No. 3 man on the team this season, won six and lost four singles tilts.

Live Frogs Are Carried On W-C Airline Planes

Leap frogs are hopping the air-lanes these days.

Thousands of pounds of live frogs to be used in medical research hop Wisconsin Central each week and are flown to the airline's trunk connections at Duluth, Minneapolis, Madison, Milwaukee and Chicago. The frogs big and little, loud and quiet, and all ages, come from the marshes, the streams, and the lake region of Oshkosh, Wis.

The demand for frogs by medical laboratories in all parts of the United States and Canada has grown only recently. Frogs, it was discovered, react swiftly to experimentation, and they are economical to use. Doctors have discovered that best results are obtained when the frogs are fresh, and so speed has become an important factor in shipment.

Experiments With Frogs
The experiments in which frogs are used are many, but, perhaps, the most important is the one for pregnancy determination. Scientists say that a frog will respond about 100 per cent accurate in a matter of minutes.

One-year-old frogs are used for digitalis experiments. Two-year-old females are in demand for drug tests. Physiology classes of colleges and universities use hundreds of frogs each week for instructional purposes.

Many laboratories specify a preference for the frogs of the lake regions which croak a single deep note that sounds like "nu-umph." On the days these fellows travel, Wisconsin Central resembles a band of drum sections. Least popular are the huge, pensive, two-pound bull frogs, who never utter a sound except in mating season, and the tiny, half-inch amphibians, most ambitious of all frogs, who croak shrilly for no reason at all.

Kenneth Sersland, manager of Wisconsin Central's station at Oshkosh, says he has become so expert at frog "calls" he can practically tell the size and species in each air-conditioned package. The frogs do their airline traveling in specially built boxes packed with a damp moss.

Frogs Got Loose
Nine times out of 10, the frogs arrive just as they were packaged, but every now and then there is a slip up. One time a Wisconsin Central station agent reached for an express box marked "Frogs."

Handle carefully." But the box was open, the cover worked loose by its hopping contents.

"The beasts are on the prowl!" he exclaimed to his assistant.

And then the two men scrambled around in the wing of the plane. If you can appreciate what work it would be to catch 50 young frogs full of pep and fresh in a dark closet, you can realize the job they had.

The Oshkosh businessmen, who operate frog farms and ship their frogs air express on Wisconsin Central will tell you they have developed an interesting industry. They hire crews of professional frog catchers in the spring and fall, and each man in a crew will not reveal to the other just where his "frog holes" are. For frogs migrate in herds to water, and each season they return to exactly the same place. It is at these times that the businessmen stock up for the seasons when frogs are hard to find.

When the migrations start, the frog catchers lay off from their regular work. On what other special job could you make $20 a day as easily?

Other Animals Carried
Transporting animals is nothing new to Wisconsin Central Airlines. Hamsters make regular trips to cities along the system, the biggest demand coming from schools for classroom study. White mice by the hundreds are seasoned travelers; canaries are special guests, riding with the passengers when there is an empty seat or two. Just the other day, several muskellunge from Woodruff, Wis., took to the air, swishing around in their tin boxes of water on a flight from Wausau to Milwaukee.

But the pilots of Wisconsin Central enjoy the puppies the most. They say they never cease to get a thrill from the happiness of youngsters, who can hardly wait for their new pets to be unloaded from the planes.

There was the time at the Green Bay station, for example. A four-month-old chow pup lifted his brown fluffy head over the edge of his traveling box and wiggled his tail so hard his whole body shook.

"Gee!" said the four-year-old boy. "Gee, Dad, I guess he's glad to see me, huh?"

The puppy whined and lifted a paw to rest beside his nose.

"Gosh," said the beaming pilot

Electronics Used In War On Lamprey

Sea lamprey research specialists are going to give electronics a chance to help in the war against the eel-shaped parasite, the conservation department's fish division reports.

Electrically-charged screens and possibly other devices will be tested as federal and state lamprey investigators probe further in their joint efforts to get a toe hold on the lamprey problem.

A few tests with electric shocking devices, made a year ago, proved ineffective as a means of destroying the lamprey larvae in the stream beds.

Besides continuing to operate present lamprey-stopping structures, federal Great Lakes lamprey investigation and control unit may install new weirs on the East branch of the Au Gres and the Rifle rivers.

Area A, most important experimental control zone, established between Waughatchance Point at the western end of the Straits of Mackinac and Alpena, already has a dozen weirs in operation. First Lake Superior weir also has been installed on Pendell's creek which runs into Whitefish bay.

Lampreys caught at the Cheboygan weir will be marked and released there to see if they show up at any other trap location. Lamprey workers want to determine if the lamprey, barred from upstream migration to spawn, migrates to other streams or whether they die without spawning.

The late spring, which disrupted many fish and game activities, also has delayed lamprey runs. A few reports on lampreys have been received but no heavy runs have been observed as yet.

Clancy Lowers The Boom To Up USAF Efficiency

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—"Clancy," who lowers a boom, is now a permanent part of the U. S. Air Force.

This official announcement takes some of the wraps off one of the most significant developments in air warfare since the war.

"Clancy" is the logical nickname they've hung on the "pilot" of an amazing new flying gas pump. It's a boom carried in the tail of a B-29 converted into a tanker. Through the boom, which Clancy lowers to a bomber flying behind and below it, passes gasoline.

Clancy's boom, developed by the Boeing Airplane Co., has revolutionized the tricky business of refueling planes in air, a problem the Air Force has been working on since early in World War II.

There's still a lot of secrecy about the project. But the Air Force now has revealed that the "experimental tag" has been removed and that Boeing has orders to start converting B-29s into tankers in mass production. Just how many have been ordered is classified. Plans call for about 20 of the tankers, however, for every 45 bombers in operation.

There's nothing new about refueling in air. It was done, with various modifications, by the tanker dropping a hose. The plane to be refueled somehow grabbed the hose and the gasoline poured from one plane to another by gravity. This was slow, hazardous and uncertain.

The new boom is faster, safer and can do its job at much higher altitudes and at faster flying speeds. A powerful pump forces the exchange of gas at high speed.

"Clancy" sits in the tail of the tanker. As the plane to be refueled approaches from behind he guides the boom by vee-shaped "rudders," just like flying a toy airplane. He can move it in a complete circle to hit a special receptacle atop the bomber's fuselage. And the boom, or pipe, can telescope to make the original connection, and to allow for bumps in the air which might make the plane shift positions.

Details of just how the Air Force will use refueling in a wartime operation are secret. But there are plenty of obvious advantages. A tanker could accompany a bomber during the first part of its mission and at some point approaching the target give it a full load of gas. The bomber's range would thus be greatly extended. And by meeting the bomber at some rendezvous point on the way back for more gas, the bomber's range could be made even greater.

Costly as this maneuver might sound, taking two airplanes to do the job of one, proponents of the plan make a case for its economy. In effect, they say, it eliminates the need for advance bases. The flying tanker is the advance base. Thus is saved the tremendous cost of wresting advance bases from enemy-held territory, with all the bloodshed, planning and logistics that that entails.

Air Force experts hope the flying boom will ultimately prove to be an intermediate necessity. That will be proved when the fast jet bombers get enough range so they can strike anywhere in the world from bases in the U. S. Concentrated research on building more range into jet planes, however, doesn't fix that goal anywhere in the very near future.

Bob Ruark Says

Too Much Hokum Wrapped Around Sex Nowadays

By ROBERT C. RUARK

Sex is something the good Lord thought up to perpetuate life, and has been fairly prevalent for some years now, and will probably continue for a considerable spell. It is my private idea that maybe we are overplaying it just a touch.

This does not mean that I am knocking sex as a commodity, for I am four-square in favor of love and marriage and motherhood, all of which have a direct connection with sex. But it seems to me we handle it awesomely, as if we had just discovered it. This leads to confusion, strife and sometimes tragedy.

In recent years there has been a concerted attempt to second-guess everything from baseball to beanbag in terms of conflict, repression and inadequacies. You've got to admit that most of the time there is plenty of room for right in the argument. Also, as old Joe Ward said once, you will never succeed in making it unpopular with the people.

That Kinsey Book
But there is an awful lot of sly lip-smacking going on, especially since the Kinsey revelations. There is an awful lot of sneaky salaciousness being peddled under the mask of pseudo-scientific dignity, and in general a heavy preoccupation with a natural phenomenon that is not unknown even to the Hottentots.

The Freudian interpretation of human impulses and behavior has spearheaded this great, broad emphasis on mating. It has been helped along by the schools and the magazines and the advertisements and the columns and the psychologists and the movies and the radio and television—to such a point that it now appears to be an industry rather than a function.

I am a guy who savors a rancid joke as well as the next fellow, but when it comes at me in the guise of a sermon or a scientific expose it loses lustre somehow. Some repartee of smoking-car anecdote from leg-show lecture seems necessary.

Birds and Bees
Today's child gets a run-down on biology in his earliest years that would have shocked the Marquis de Sade. A certain amount of birds-and-bees is healthy enough, but not mandatory, because the knowledge has a way of getting around. But teaching on the Kinsey report seems a little ripe for a tot. With the trend toward steeping little John and little Mary in amatory lore, they must be meeting maturity with a great load of conjectures and worries.

I do not believe it is necessary to burden a mere child with the intricacies of matrimony, homosexuality and other aberrations of the perpetuation process. It is being done by too many parents who have hardened to transompeepers, who have discovered that a basic fascination with reproduction is big business if you can find another sober hook to hang it on.

The young bride and groom start off the adventure today with more technical exhortation than an atom-splitter. There are six sets of rules for everything from birth control to bacon burning. Even the minor conflicts of matrimony are volubly explained in terms of whether John hated his father at the age of 3, or Mary was secretly enamored of a red sled.

It's Nothing New
If John drinks a couple of highballs, he is rassing with a basic sexual frustration. If Mary feels a little low and snaps at the cat, bingo! It is because she was rumped at recess at the age of 9.

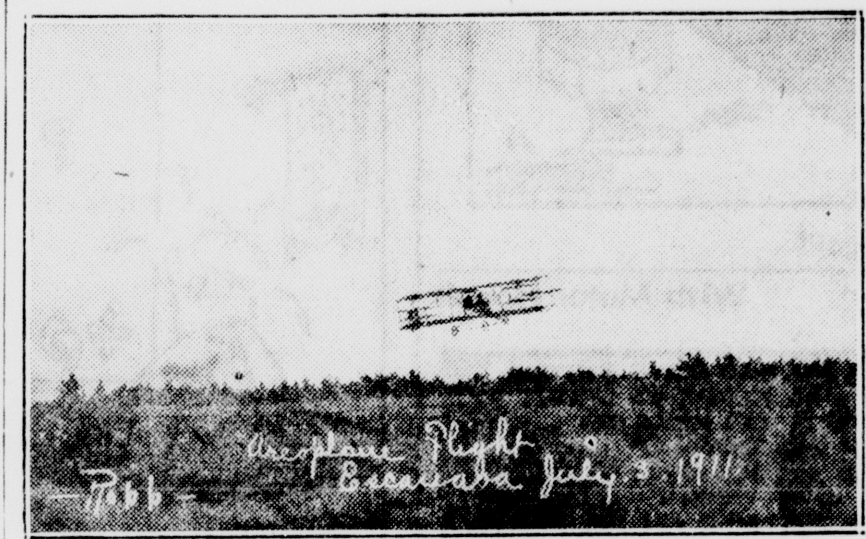

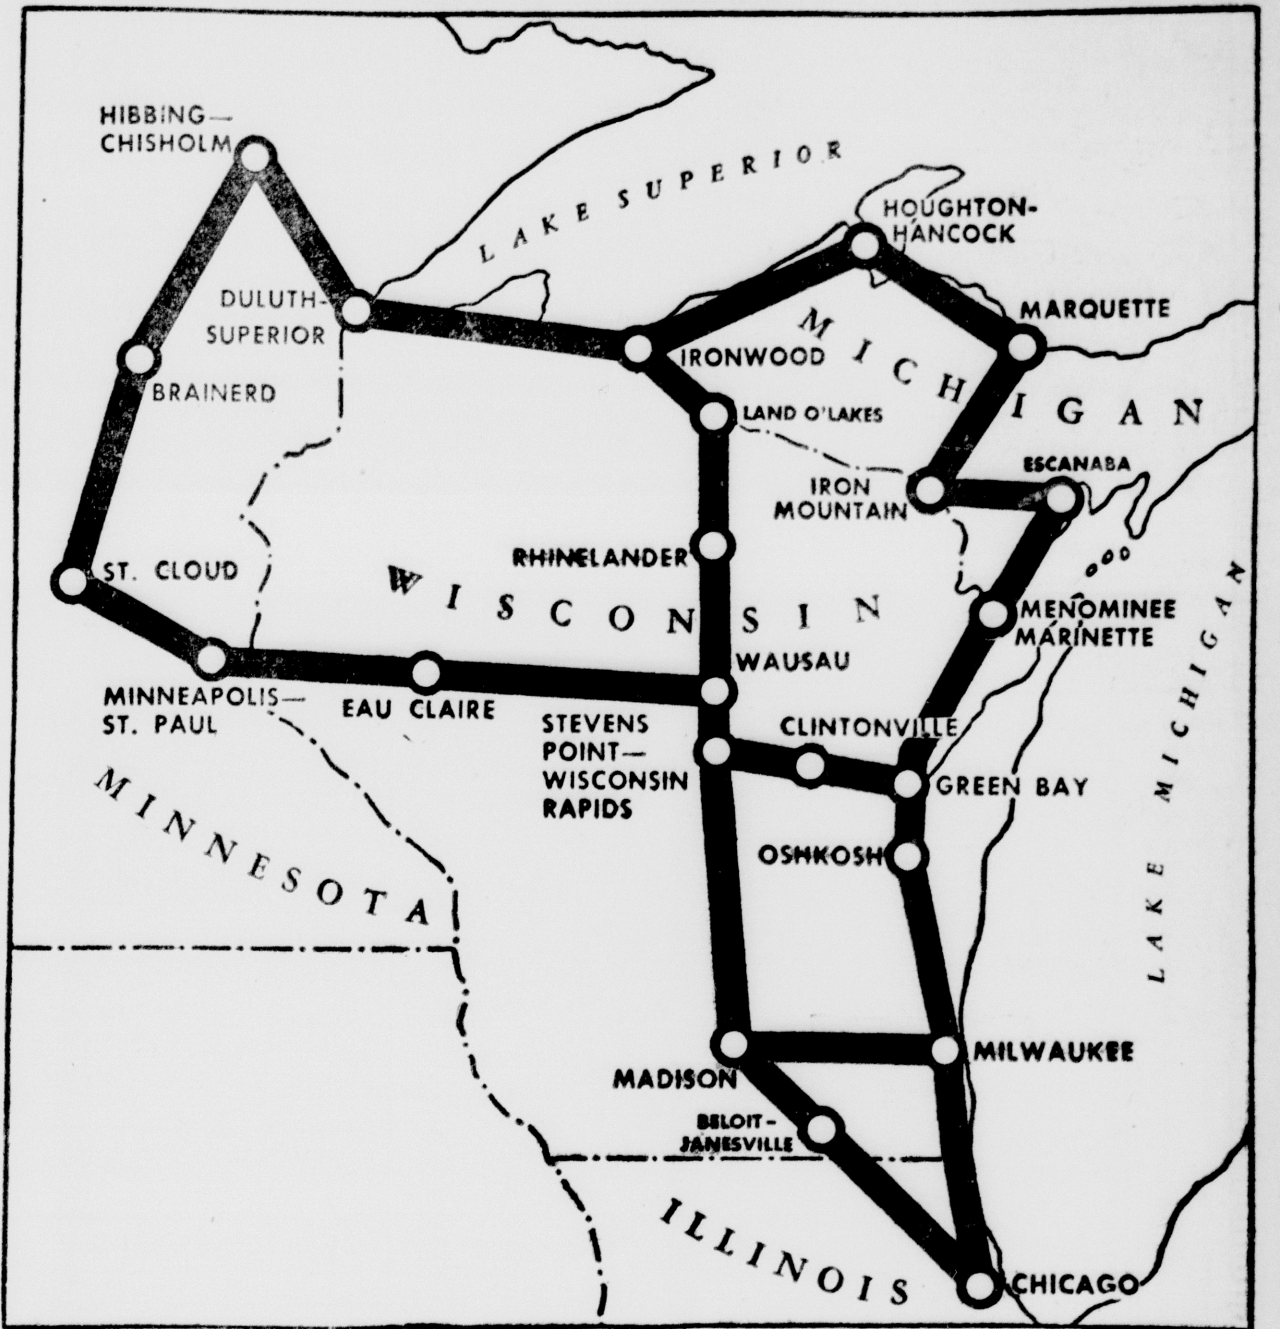

The last two female-written books I have read display a fascination with basic morality that makes breathless literature, in terms of scrawled washroom messages, and certainly evince a reversal of what used to be called maidenly modesty. These ladies innocently appear to have discovered sex and they discover it with the heavy hand of a drunken drummer in a day coach. Point is, sex just ain't that new.

We have recently become so overawed by the miracle of the female chest that it alone is an industry, as are legs. Legs have been going on for ages. So have bosoms. So has sex, which just isn't the popeyed miracle we make off today as the explanation of everything.

Yugoslavia Closes Legation In Albania

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—(P)—Yugoslavia has closed its legation in neighboring Albania and won't reopen it until Albanian officials "change their attitude toward Yugoslav diplomats."

Garbage Trucker Who Paraded With Queen Gets His Job Back

BEBINGTON, Eng.—(P)—The city council took pity on Sidney Cooper and gave him back the job he lost for driving his garbage truck in Queen Elizabeth's procession.

Will Discuss New Products

Business Leaders Meet In Newberry

New products and new markets for present products of the Upper Peninsula will be discussed at the Second Annual Upper Peninsula Business Leaders' Conference, to be held in Newberry, Iron Mountain and Ironwood, June 12-14.

This will be a series of three regional meetings with the same conference program being presented in each of the three cities on successive days. Sponsors are the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, Chambers of Commerce in the three cities, and the University of Michigan School of Business Administration and Extension Service.

Robert N. Cross, associate director of the University's Bureau of Business Research, will discuss "Market and Product Analysis for Upper Peninsula Business" at the three meetings. He will emphasize methods of analyzing markets and will also discuss the possibility of new products and new businesses for this area.

Cross, who was educated at the University of Michigan, has been associated with the Bureau of Business Research since 1944. Prior to that he had experience as a statistician with two Chicago firms and extensive experience in government service.

Cross was associated with the Federal Works Agency as a finance examiner and then with the National Resources Planning Board and the Michigan Planning Commission as a public works analyst and consultant.

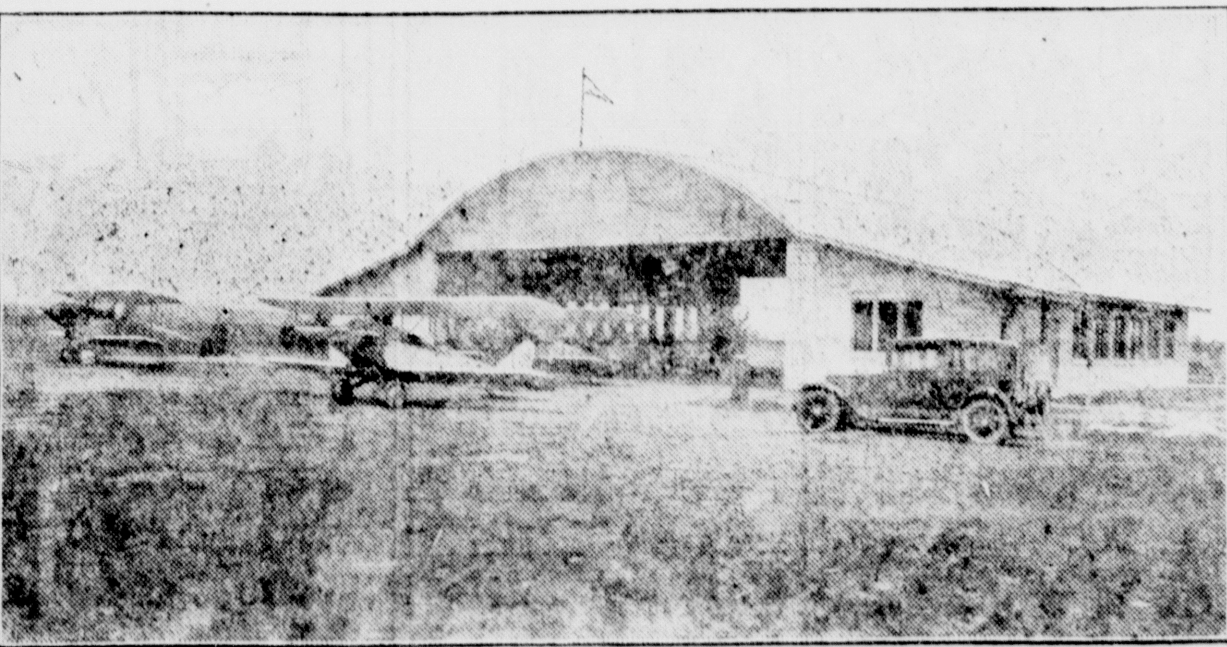

Upper Peninsula citizens welcome the contribution which the University of Michigan School of Business Administration and Extension Service is making through these programs to broaden our vision and to direct our efforts into right channels in the solving of our own economic problems. "What our area needs in the building of a sound economy is not federal or state aid or subsidies but sound guidance and direction and an alerted public effort on the local level directed toward the improvement of industrial enterprise," said James J. Beckman, president of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

Former Grand Marais Girl Tells Of Life In German Village

GRAND MARAIS—Mrs. Irving Rubenstein, the former Iva Peterson, and her two daughters, Gerna, who is two years old and Phyllis, one of Erding, Germany, are visiting in Grand Marais at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Peterson.

The Rubensteins left Erding by train for their port of embarkation April 3. They rode in an American coach with German war brides to Frankfurt and then on to Bremerhaven in a pullman. In Bremerhaven they received their physicals before embarking on the General Patch for their 8-day voyage to their homeland.

While on the General Patch, Irving shared first class quarters with his wife and children although he ate his meals in the hold with the troops. On the whole the voyage was pleasant though chilly enough to make wraps necessary when on deck. They suffered only two days of rough sailing and that was just before leaving the English Channel.

On board ship there was a complete hospital, a snack bar open until 10 each night, laundry facilities, movies afternoon and evening and a dining room with a waiter for every two tables. This last was most helpful as the waiters helped serve the small children.

The Rubensteins landed at Staten Island and then went to Fort Hamilton, N. J. where they picked up their car which they had shipped two weeks in advance. From there they motored to Boston where they visited and then on to Chicago where they spent six days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morrison. At this point they parted with Irving returning to Otis Field, Mass., and Iva and the children coming to Grand Marais.

Married in Erding

Iva and Irving were married in Erding, Germany, where both were serving with the U. S. government, she as a WAC and he as a Master Sergeant in the Air Force. As is the custom they had two marriage ceremonies, one civil, and one, church.

In Erding they lived in a furnished apartment in an area and report that life gets more like "stateside" every day.

As all army families in Germany they had the services of one maid who took over the housework leaving Iva free to care for her children. She says it will take time to adjust to doing all her own work and also care for the children as we do.

All purchase of food, etc. was made at the government commissary and p. x. All greens, etc., were available in season being shipped from Italy, dairy products from Denmark, Holland and Sweden. German markets also carry greens but their sanitary standards being lower than ours are not often frequented. Prices are approximately what they are in the states, but no tax. Legal tender used is paper script issued in the same denominations as our currency but with no pennies. This is only for use in the American Zone by authorized personnel.

For amusement they have clubs, movies, later issues than here. Buses transformed from weapon carriers serve for transportation. The most annoying thing here to them is the advertising interrupting all the radio programs. In Erding the only American station is government operated and there are absolutely no advertisements except about joining the army or buying war bonds. Even direct transcriptions have musical interludes instead of ads.

Still Black Markets

A black market still flourishes in cigarettes and coffee and occasionally in pineapple and cocoa and other fluctuating items.

Erding is a small town in the Bavarian Alps, just an hour's drive from Munich. The seasons are much the same as ours only damper. As most German villages it is really a farming community and the people go out each day to work on their outlying farmlands. The methods used are outdated. Tractors only now are beginning to replace horses and oxen.

On March 24 Iva made a pilgrimage to Konnersreuth to see Theresa Neuman. She went with five bus loads of women. When they arrived she was out of her coma and the blood was drying on the face and the one hand that was visible.

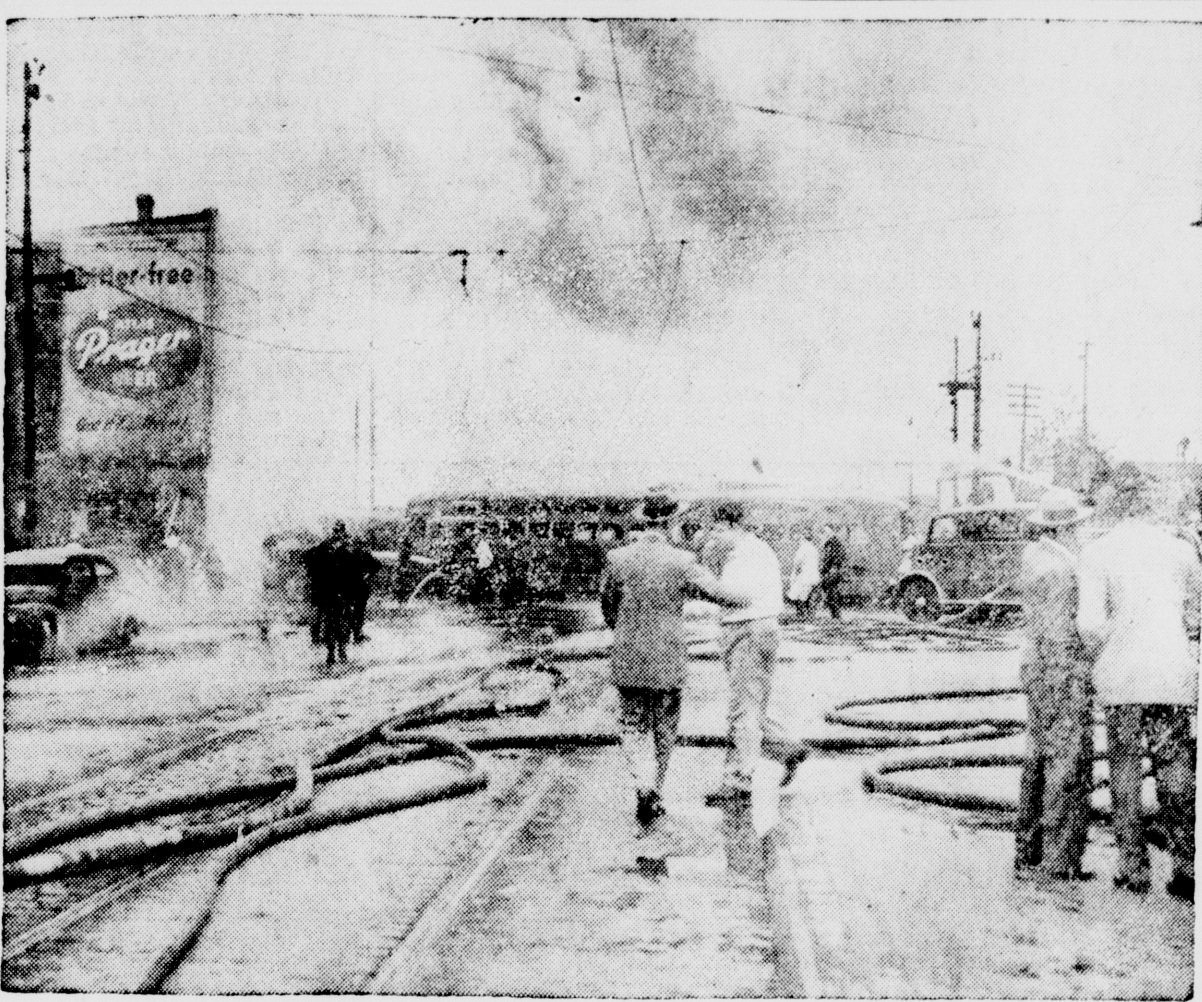

Irving was to be discharged May 22 and is reenlisting. He has served 11 years in the U. S. Army, the past 5 years overseas, and they expect to spend the next three years in the states.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Chittenden attended funeral services in Sault Ste Marie for Mrs. Herbert W. Rummels.

Mrs. Steve Tornovich and Mrs. Louis Dowell and June, Bill and Allan Tornovich and Barbara Ann Bugg have returned from Newberry where they visited Mr. and Mrs. John McCartney.

Congressman Jailed For Payroll Padding Appeals To Truman

WASHINGTON — (AP) — J. Parnell Thomas, former congressman convicted of padding his office payroll, has appealed to President Truman to free him from prison and cancel an unpaid $10,000 fine.

Under White House routine, the petition was sent to the Justice Department where a spokesman said that there has been no recommendation made on it. William H. Collins, who represented Thomas at his trial last December, told a reporter the petition was sent to the president "quite some time ago."

Thomas, a New Jersey Republican, was convicted of defrauding the government by putting on his payroll persons who did no work and arranging for them to kick back their salaries to him.

Sentenced to six to 18 months in prison and fined $10,000, he will become eligible for parole on June 6. If paroled, however, he still would be liable for the fine.

Collins said he understands Thomas is not able to pay the fine.

PROPOSAL TO PROVIDE EXCHANGE TELEPHONE SERVICE, INCLUDING "EXTENDED AREA" SERVICE IN CORNELL AND VICINITY

Notice is hereby given that the Michigan Bell Telephone Company will present an application to the Michigan Public Service Commission in the City of Lansing on the 8th day of June, 1950 requesting authority to establish a telephone exchange in the community of Cornell, to provide exchange telephone service in the community and certain surrounding territory, and also for authority to provide "Extended Area" telephone service so that Cornell subscribers can call Escanaba, Gladstone, Perkins and Rock telephones without payment of a toll charge.

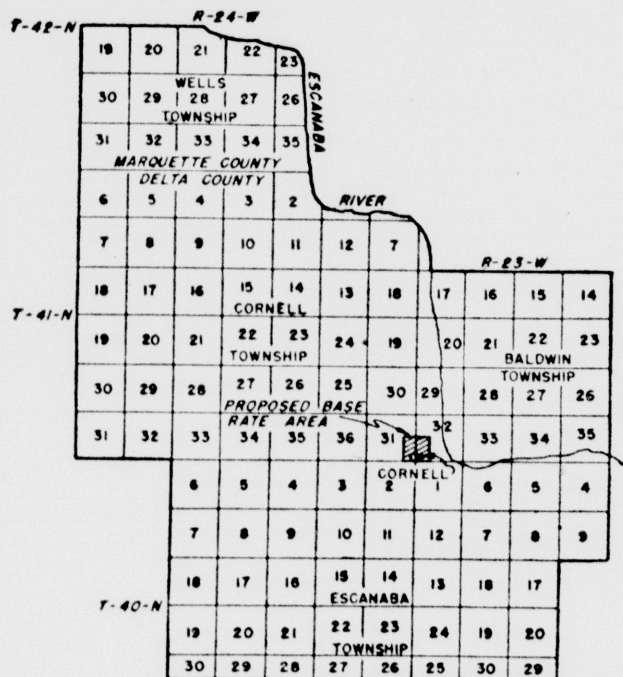

The application further will request the Commission to set a date for a public hearing of these matters.

Plan For Cornell

The proposal for Cornell is to establish an exchange area to include virtually all of Cornell Township and portions of Baldwin and Escanaba townships, Delta County, and a portion of Wells Township, Marquette County, as shown on the accompanying map. Within the exchange area a "Base Rate Area" one-quarter mile square would be established, centering around Cornell, also shown on the map.

Within the "Base Rate Area", flat monthly rates would be made applicable for one, two, and four party services as shown in the table below. Outside the "Base Rate Area" but within the exchange area the same classes of service would be available but in addition to these rates, mileage charges, shown below, would also apply. Rural line service at the rural rates shown below would be available outside the base rate area without mileage charges.

"Extended Area" service to Escanaba and Gladstone, would be furnished when the Cornell Exchange is established. If facilities are available, this service will be provided to Rock and Perkins at the same time. If facilities are not available at that time, "Extended Area" service to Rock and Perkins would be furnished as soon as practicable.

NOTE: NUMBERED SQUARES ARE TOWNSHIP SECTIONS.

EXCHANGE RATES

The monthly flat rates which would apply in the Cornell exchange, under the Company's present schedules, as shown below. In December, 1948 the Company applied to the Commission for increased exchange rates throughout its territory. These rates have not as yet been authorized but are also shown below, as they would apply in Cornell. Under either rate schedule the addition of Perkins and Rock to the Cornell flat rate calling area later would not affect Cornell rates:

Cigar-Making Is Hobby Of Marquette Man; He Rolled 'em 44 Years

MARQUETTE, Mich. — Cigar making in Michigan's far north?

It's being done here by Frank LaMora, nimble-fingered veteran of the trade who's been rolling Havanas for 44 years. He estimates he has turned out 2,000,000 cigars in that time. LaMora once made as many as 600 cigars a day—all by hand—but now operates his small shop only in his leisure time.

During the day, LaMora works in the mailing room of the Marquette Mining Journal. He makes his two products, Marquette Clubs and Encores, in his spare time. The brands once sold throughout the Upper Peninsula but are now retained almost exclusively in Marquette.

When LaMora began his apprenticeship in the trade, there were 42 cigar makers in town. The Upper Peninsula was dotted with cigar factories from one end to the other. There were six shops in Marquette alone.

Then came World War I and the trend from cigars to cigarettes.
